

TOBACCO SALES GREATEST EVER MADE IN STATE

High Prices of Last Year Tumble as More Than 3,000,000 Pounds are Auctioned Off.

INTEREST INTENSE AS FIGURES SOAR

Opening Day Made Colorful When Hundreds of Buyers and Thousands of Citizens Attend.

Georgia's greatest tobacco year was opened Tuesday in more than 20,000 centers when markets were thrown open to buyers from all the large tobacco companies in the country. Intense interest among the competing companies, the growers and thousands of citizens from the state in tobacco districts as well as from Florida and Alabama made opening day a record-breaking and colorful event.

More than 3,000,000 pounds of the golden leaf were knocked down by keenly interested auctioneers who quickly realized they were suddenly a part of a record achievement in the state's progress. Floors of warehouses in more than 20 Georgia towns and cities in many instances couldn't hold the crop which arrived at their doors.

Floors Crowded.

Milling around the auction blocks were buyers from every large tobacco company in the nation. But as many as they were, they were all but lost in the hundreds and thousands of growers, independent buyers and Georgians, Alabamians and Floridians who sought entrance to the warehouses.

Ceremony opened many of the sales, speakers from among the ranks of city and county officials adding color to the proceedings with addresses which painted in optimistic terms this young industry in the state.

Senate Bill Seeks To Bar Fake Healers

Senator Rivers Moves To Create Medical Board of Examiners.

A war on practitioners, who, under the guise of "faith healers," "electropaths," "chiropractors" and similar titles are alleged to prey on gullible patrons throughout the state, was launched Tuesday night at an open hearing before the senate judiciary committee No. 1.

The legal broadside was fired in a bill by Senator E. D. Rivers, of the sixth district, to create a board of examiners vested with power to hold examinations and issue licenses to members of the "healing" profession.

Inasmuch as only proponents of the measure were heard at the meeting, action on the bill was deferred until 8 o'clock Thursday night when the opposition will be given a chance to present its case at the Kimball House.

Dr. Allen H. Bunce, of Atlanta, secretary and treasurer of the Georgia Medical Association, appearing in support of the measure, pointed out that it would not affect the present boards governing medical science.

"This bill," Dr. Bunce said, "will require that practitioners not under jurisdiction of existing boards be versed in fundamental sciences, such as chemistry, bacteriology, anatomy and hygiene. The present law cannot touch those who administer to human ills by other than medical or osteopathic means, consequently there are innumerable 'healers' practicing in Georgia today who have no basic knowledge of science."

The bill would provide a board of five members to be paid $10 a day in the discharge of their duties and allowed to collect nominal examination fees.

Senate Defeats Constitutional Convention Bill

Upper House Passes Lieutenant-Governor Measure and Recommends Dykes as Incumbent.

GENERAL TAX ACT OCCUPIES HOUSE

Legislators Formally Invited To Attend Carroll County Centennial in October Next.

After a spectacular parliamentary battle in the state senate Tuesday afternoon, at the first afternoon session held by that body, the senate bill providing for the calling of a constitutional convention in Georgia was defeated by a vote of 27 to 18. The vote was taken after a long quibble over the question of whether it required a two-thirds vote or simply a majority vote to pass. Senator E. D. Rivers, one of the supporters of the measure, was presiding in place of President Dykes and he ruled that only a majority vote was required. The senate, however, by a close vote, overruled the decision of the chair and when the question was placed before the body, killed the measure.

At the same session of the senate a bill by Senator J. B. Jackson, of Jones, providing for the creation of the post of lieutenant governor in Georgia was passed without a dissenting vote.

In the house Tuesday the grind over the passage of the general tax act continued with the chief development being the formation of a plan to present the proposed general sales tax in a separate bill as a substitute for the entire general tax act. At first it was expected that the sales tax would be presented in the form of an amendment to the general tax act.

BILBO IS LEADING GOVERNOR'S RACE

Murphree Is Second in Primary Held Tuesday in Mississippi and Corner Is in Third Place.

Jackson, Miss., August 2.—(AP)—Theodore G. Bilbo, who has been leading in the race for the democratic gubernatorial nomination tonight returned from today's democratic primary victorious.

With 307 precincts of the 1,525 in Bilbo had 10,843 votes. Governor Dennis Murphree 6,233, Mike S. Conner 4,775 and Albert C. Anderson 1,385.

In the race for lieutenant governor, 192 precincts showed: M. P. L. Love 5,980, Bidwell Adam 4,900 and John L. Smith 1,936.

For auditor, with 177 precincts reported, White had 6,291 and Dinkins 4,385.

Murphree was advocating a continuation of the "progressive economy" program of late Governor Henry L. Williams. Conner's platform was similar to that of Murphree, and that of Anderson proposed a better system of highways and markets for the rural district. Bilbo gave a state printery for school books.

Almost 10,000 candidates were voted upon in the primary as nominees appeared in the various counties in addition to a lengthy state ticket. A state auditor, an insurance commissioner, a commissioner of agriculture, railroad commissioners and a land commissioner were to be nominated in addition to the gubernatorial candidate. Nomination is equivalent to election.

SACCO, VANZETTI ARE TRANSFERRED TO DEATH HOUSE

Decision on Fate of Two Noted Radicals Will Be Announced by Governor Tonight.

Four Courses Open To Governor Fuller

Boston, August 2.—(United News.)—Four possible courses are open to Governor Fuller when he announces his decision in the Sacco-Vanzetti case Wednesday night. They are:

- 1—An executive pardon.
- 2—A commutation of death sentence to life imprisonment.
- 3—A further respite, delaying execution.
- 4—He may refuse to interfere.

At the same session of the senate a bill by Senator J. B. Jackson, of Jones, providing for the creation of the post of lieutenant governor in Georgia was passed without a dissenting vote.

In the house Tuesday the grind over the passage of the general tax act continued with the chief development being the formation of a plan to present the proposed general sales tax in a separate bill as a substitute for the entire general tax act. FARM EXEMPTION MEASURE KILLED

Effort To Abolish State Levy of Five Mills Loses in House Committee by Vote of 13 to 5.

Following lengthy deliberation on the proposed constitutional amendment to exempt Georgia farmers from the state tax of five mills on cultivated farm properties up to 100 acres, including farm equipment, members of the house committee on amendments to the constitution voted 13 to 5 to report the measure back with recommendation that same do not pass.

The committee voted favorably on the Davis bill, providing for increasing the term of office of members of the house and senate from two to four years. Supporters of the bill, framed by the representative from Floyd county, pointed out that it would discourage legislators from attending the assembly for purely selfish political motives, and would permit them to keep the interest of the state as a whole at heart. It is also expected to aid in securing better men to run for office and in making successful candidates more efficient through two years' additional experience.

The farm exemption bill, championed by Representative Dickey, of Gordon county, and Davis, of DeKalb, was originally sponsored by a committee of the Atlanta chamber of commerce as a means of attracting outside farmers in moving to Georgia and encouraging them in making intensive cultivation of small tracts. In urging favorable recommendation of the bill, Mr. Dickey, at the committee meeting Tuesday night, stressed the importance of the advertising feature. He stated it would aid in disposing of the tenant system and could encourage farmers to buy the amount of land exempted from taxes and cultivate it intensively themselves.

HUSBAND FIRED FIRST, WIDOW TELLS JURORS

Defendant in Lake Triangle Murder Claims She Was Trying To Patch Up Quarrel.

FATAL SHOT LAID TO JAMES BEADLE

Mrs. Lehouef Tells Jury Dr. Dreher and Her Husband Had Been Enemies Three Years.

Franklin, La., August 2.—(AP)—Mrs. James J. Lehouef testified in the trial of herself and two others on charges of murdering her husband, James J. Lehouef, that her husband fired the first shot at a meeting with Dr. Thomas E. Dreher and James Beadle, the other two defendants, when Lehouef met his death.

Beadle was accused by Mrs. Lehouef of firing the shots which killed her husband.

Mrs. Lehouef, who was the first witness for the defense, said she and her husband went boat riding and two men approached in another boat. She identified them as Dreher and Beadle.

Tells of Meeting.

"Is that you, Jim?" Dr. Dreher shouted, according to the witness.

"Yes, who is that?" Lehouef was said to have replied.

"It's the Doc."

A few more words passed and then her husband fired, after which she said Beadle returned the fire with a shotgun.

Before the shots were fired, Mrs. Lehouef said, Dr. Dreher stated he had a note from her asking him to meet Lehouef in a friendly way.

Then her husband said, she testified, "Didn't I tell you if you ever met me and my wife together I'd kill you? And you have that damned Beadle with you."

Dreher said, after the shooting, according to the witness:

"My God, what has happened? What will become of us?"

Mrs. Lehouef said Beadle replied, "You couldn't help it. He fired first."

She had asked her husband before the meeting, she testified, to be friends again with Dreher, as they had been in the past, and he agreed. Then she wrote Dr. Dreher a note, she stated, telling him her husband was coming to see him to resume their friendship. The meeting, she said, was to be held on Lake Palourde.

The body of Lehouef was found in the lake on Tuesday, while the slaying is alleged to have taken place.

James R. Parkerson, one of her attorneys, showed the jury a letter which had been written to Dr. Dreher on July 1, arranging for the meeting.

Dr. Dreher, who was the last to be tried, attempted to bring out that the note to Dr. Dreher said nothing about a friendly meeting.

Sends Note to Dreher.

A copy of the note to Dr. Dreher follows:

"Dear Doctor: Jim and me will go boat riding on the lake. I talked to Jim. I believe he will treat you friendly, so meet us tonight and fix this up friendly after he comes, because an angry Jim saying he will kill me."

Mrs. Lehouef testified her husband and Dr. Dreher had been "enemies" for about three years after she said Mrs. Dreher showed Lehouef an anonymous letter Mrs. Dreher had received.

During the cross-examination the district attorney asked her if a statement she had just made did not conflict with one previously made by her, was not under oath then," she replied.

Fear Closes Lips.

"I didn't tell about my husband's death because I was afraid I'd be blamed," she stated several times. Dr. Dreher and Beadle told her not to tell anyone, she said.

Mrs. Lehouef said she did not ask what had been done with her husband's body and that she never saw it before it was buried in a Morgan City cemetery.

Court was adjourned at 11 p. m. until 9:30 a. m. tomorrow when examination will be resumed.

Several other witnesses will testify before Dr. Dreher is placed on the stand, defense attorneys announced.

Testimony for Beadle will come later.

MABEL NORMAND CRITICALLY ILL; INFLUENZA FEARED

By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.

Hollywood, Calif., August 2.—Mabel Normand is reported gravely ill in Santa Monica hospital.

The actress, who was rushed to the hospital from Hollywood in an ambulance last night.

Miss Normand's illness is reported by Dr. George E. Dugan as being an extremely heavy cold, with conditions resembling influenza and pains in the side. The pains, according to attaches at the hospital, are interpreted as "threats of pleurisy or pneumonia."

At Miss Normand's home, her secretary was in tears. One member of the household said:

"Miss Normand is very, very dangerously sick. We can only hope for the best."

REPUBLICANS ARE STUNNED AS PRESIDENT ANNOUNCES "I DO NOT CHOOSE TO RUN"

PRESIDENT ENDS 1928 SPECULATION ON ANNIVERSARY

Formally Hands Written Statement to News Writers, After 4 Years in White House.

EVEN HIS FRIENDS ARE SURPRISED

Executive Refuses to Amplify or Comment Simple Renunciation of G. O. P. Candidacy.

BY PAUL R. MALLON.

Rapid City, S. D., August 2.—(United News.)—With dramatic simplicity such as characterized his inauguration by the light of a flickering oil lamp in his Vermont home four years ago, President Coolidge today announced that he does not choose to run for reelection in 1928.

His face was solemn and his hands shook a little as he passed to the newspaper correspondents who came here with him a little slip of paper on which was written this brief announcement:

"I do not choose to run for president in nineteen twenty-eight."

There was no explanation.

There was no reason given.

When asked if he wanted to say anything, the president shook his head.

There was a strained formality about the whole affair. Earlier in the day he had held his usual newspaper conference. He reviewed in a proud tone the accomplishment in peace and economy which his administration had wrought.

Then he said:

"If the conference will reassemble at noon, I will have a statement to make."

Kept Own Counsel.

Even those closest to the president and the executive officers did not know what he had in mind. Fifteen minutes before noon he called his confidential secretary, Edward T. Clarke, in his office and said that he thought this would be a good time to announce that he did not intend to be a candidate next year. He had just completed four years in the white house, he said. Clarke then typed out the four brief notes.

BLACK REASSURES ADAIR CREDITORS

Trustee Explains Loan Company Following Federal Judge's Order Vacating Receivership.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The Adair Realty & Loan company, which has been operating the renting, insuring and real estate departments of the Adair Realty & Trust company, was organized for the purpose of saving the values of those departments for the creditors of the latter company, Eugene R. Black, trustee in bankruptcy, said in a statement issued Tuesday night.

The statement followed action of Federal Judge William J. Wilson, who signed an order directing officers of the Adair Realty & Loan company not to relinquish assets of the loan company to temporary receivers appointed Monday by Judge G. H. Howard in Fulton county superior court.

"These values were saved because of the capital stock of the Adair Realty & Loan company is owned by the Adair Realty & Trust company and such stock is a valuable asset of the estate of the Adair Realty & Trust company in that it represents the going values of the long-established departments of that company," the statement said.

Plan Known to Creditors.

"Prior to the bankruptcy of the Adair Realty & Trust company the organization and purpose of the Adair Realty & Loan company was submitted to creditors representing $2,000,000 of claims against Adair Realty & Trust company and the salaries of the officers of the Adair Realty & Trust company were paid."

President as He Is Today

Latest photo of President Coolidge whose announcement that he does "not choose to run," created a political sensation Tuesday.

President's Sudden Decision Brings General Comment

SENATOR GEORGE.

Macon, Ga., August 2.—(AP)—During a visit in Macon last week, Senator Walter F. George, democrat, Georgia, indicated that President Coolidge would not be the republican nominee for president in 1928.

VICE PRESIDENT DAWES.

Chicago, August 2.—(AP)—President Coolidge's announcement that he will not seek the presidency next year will be received with regret by millions of his countrymen. Vice President Charles G. Dawes said in a statement here tonight.

SENATOR JAMES REED.

Kansas City, August 2.—(AP)—Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, today declined to comment on the decision of President Coolidge not to run for another term in 1928. Senator Reed has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the democratic nomination for president.

SENATOR BROOKHART.

Des Moines, Iowa, August 2.—(AP)—Senator Smith W. Brookhart said today: "Whatever else happens, President Coolidge's decision not to run for reelection means a victory for agriculture."

The senator has for several years been an outspoken opponent of the administration.

"The president's announcement," Senator Brookhart continued, "is a concession to agriculture even though a reactionary nomination in next year's convention there will be real chance now to make a fight for agriculture along the line."

"I think they will not dare dictate a republican nomination next year that is hostile to agriculture."

GOVERNOR ALBERT RITCHIE.

Annapolis, Md., August 2.—(AP)—Governor Albert C. Ritchie, asked to comment on the dispatch from Rapid City, S. D., saying President Coolidge had announced he did not choose to be president in 1928, said:

"I do not choose to make a statement at this time."

SENATOR HIRAM JOHNSON.

San Francisco, August 2.—(AP)—Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, advised of President Coolidge's decision not to run for reelection, said: "It is a matter upon which I do not care to comment."

Longworth, son-in-law of the late President Roosevelt, has been mentioned as the ranking republican candidate for president in 1928, in the event Coolidge is not drafted as the nominee.

WILLIAM M. BUTLER.

New York, August 2.—(AP)—William M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee and close friend of President Coolidge is not convinced that the president's announcement in Rapid City means his elimination as a 1928 presidential possibility.

"I very deeply regret the announcement," he said when informed of it, "but I am not convinced he will not run if nominated."

Mr. Butler, who was here for the day on personal business, declined to express any opinion as to whether there would be any concerted movement to urge the nomination upon Mr. Coolidge.

NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER.

New York, August 2.—(AP)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, today gave the following comment on President Coolidge's intention of not becoming a candidate to succeed himself in 1928:

"As a personal friend and political supporter of President Coolidge, although without any knowledge of his decision, I had taken it for granted as I stated in an address to my friends and neighbors of the Riverside Republican club on February 7 last, that President Coolidge would, when he thought the right time had come, decline to permit his name to be used as a candidate for a third term."

"I am very many persons in public life disagreed with me, more or less violently, but I have seen no reasons to change the views then expressed."

"President Coolidge has done precisely what I have always thought he would do when he felt the time was ripe. Few men in our political history have been more firmly devoted to the principle of the term limit than he. He has shown that principle which takes precedence over personal ambition. He has displayed a fine and firm character."

FRANK STEARNS.

Boston, August 2.—(AP)—Frank W. Stearns, close personal friend of President Coolidge, declined to comment tonight on the announcement from the summer white house that Mr. Coolidge did not choose to be a candidate for reelection in 1928.

"I can't see that there is much to be said," he remarked when asked for a statement.

FRANK O. LOWDEN.

New York, August 2.—(AP)—Asked to comment on President Coolidge's declaration that he did "not choose" to run for the presidency in 1928, Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, and mentioned frequently as a republican presidential possibility, sent his message to the Associated Press from Alexandria Bay, N. Y.

"Have no statement to make beyond the one already made to different delegations calling upon me. That statement was, in substance, that I know of no man in all our history who has run away from the presidency."

COLONEL CARMI THOMPSON.

Cleveland, Ohio, August 2.—(United News.)—In a statement of Colonel Carmi A. Thompson, President Coolidge's announcement that he will not seek reelection in 1928 "leaves an open field in the republican ranks."

GOVERNOR FULLER.

Boston, August 2.—(United News.)—The man who presides over the state of which Calvin Coolidge was once governor, believes that President Coolidge will be forced to run again by the demand of the country.

Governor Alvan T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, commented as follows on the president's statement:

"I think President Coolidge is sincere in his statement that he does

G. O. P. POLITICIANS SEE NOMINATION DOOR LEFT AJAR

Feeling Persists in Official Circles in Washington That Coolidge Announcement Is "Feeler."

HOOVER IS HELD
LEADER IN RACE

Possible Candidacies of Vice President Dawes, Frank Lowden and Longworth Discussed.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, August 2.—(United News.)—Republican politicians are frankly puzzled as to what President Coolidge's announcement at Rapid City today means.

Many are inclined to view it as a feeler rather than a final renunciation of another term. Probably the prevailing sentiment is best summarized by Senator Smoot, Utah, regular republican:

"If the republican convention wants Mr. Coolidge, he will run, but if left to his personal choice he would prefer not to; that is the only construction I can put on the president's statement."

On the other hand, some felt that the president had removed himself from the 1928 situation definitely, and that in face of today's announcement he would not accept renomination.

In event Coolidge does not run again, Secretary Hoover is regarded by many as the administration choice. Rumor has it that Hoover was being groomed by the administration have been current here for some weeks, although there was no inkling that the president would make any definite statement as to his own plans at this time.

It was the cryptic form of Coolidge's statement which caused so much uncertainty: "I do not choose to run for president in 1928."

Some politicians regard this as a restrained expression of a preference and entirely different from saying: "I will not accept renomination."

Language Puzzles.

"Why doesn't he say what he means," muttered one republican senator.

Some democrats accepted the statement as a flat withdrawal.

"Mr. Coolidge has decided wisely," one of them said. "I am glad he has so much respect for the third-term tradition which has become an immovable landmark in the affairs of our country. I have always believed that the suggestion that he be made a candidate for a third term was made so that Coolidge's friends could select a man to succeed him. Two things have hurt him in the last year—the failure of any farm relief and the failure to call an extra session for Mississippi flood relief."

Coolidge made his announcement on

Stone Mountain Association Probe Asked by Sen. Kelley In Denunciation of Officials

Resolution Introduced in Senate Charges "Waste, Extravagance and Mismanagement" in Affairs of Body.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

An inquisitorial investigation of the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial association was asked Tuesday in a resolution introduced in the Georgia senate by Senator John I. Kelley.

The investigation would be conducted by a subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee, appointed to inquire into the affairs of the association in connection with a pending bill which would grant the association right of eminent domain to acquire a lot of ground in front of the monument.

The resolution stated that charges of "waste, extravagance and mismanagement" had been made against the association and that the efforts of the subcommittee to obtain the appearance of Hollins N. Randolph, president and Rogers Winter, publicity director, for questioning about affairs of the association had failed.

Ask Full Power.

"Full power and authority to subpoena witnesses and compel the production of papers, books, records, accounts and documentary evidence" was asked of the senate.

Meanwhile the senate was asked to take no further action on the measure seeking eminent domain.

Text of Resolution.

"Whereas, a bill has been introduced in this body providing for the delegation of the state's power of eminent domain to the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial association, and

"Whereas, Hollins N. Randolph, president of said association, and Rogers Winter, publicity director thereof, have been maintaining a consistent and powerful lobby for the passage of said bill upon the pretense that it is essential to said proposed monument that said association be given the power and authority to acquire certain lands adjacent to Stone Mountain as a park from which to view said proposed monument, and

"Whereas, said Randolph and said Winter willfully and deliberately sought to deceive the senate committee by making the false charge and statement that they had made every effort to buy the lands which they claimed were needed and that the owners thereof had refused to sell the same, when in truth and in fact they were forced in answer to questions propounded to them before said committee to confess that no bona fide effort had been made by any one to purchase said property as claimed, and

"Whereas, it has been charged by responsible and honorable persons and is generally believed all over the country that said Randolph has mismanaged and wasted the funds of said association in the most prodigal and extravagant manner, often for his own personal and political aggrandizement, notwithstanding that said funds were contributed out of the noblest impulses and promptings of the human heart for the purpose of commemorating the sacrifices and valor of our deathless dead; and

"Whereas, charges of waste and extravagance and mismanagement of said funds have been made by the United Daughters of the Confederacy who have for several years been demanding an audit of the books and accounts of said association, without success, and

"Whereas, the same charge was made a few months ago by Hon. Clark Howell, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, in the following language, to-wit: 'Seeking to divert public attention from the diligent efforts of the revered women who constitute the Atlanta chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy to probe into the financial accounts with the Stone Mountain Memorial association, which remain hermetically sealed, etc., and

"Whereas, the same charges have been repeatedly made in the press and were recently made in the presence of the said Randolph in the open and public hearing held by said senate committee, and

"Whereas, said Randolph was goaded at said hearing into inviting an investigation of his accounts, books, etc., stating to said committee that he had nothing to hide, that the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial association is a public corporation, and that he would be glad to appear before said committee and to produce all of his records for the purpose of disproving said charges, and

"Whereas, pursuant to said statement, a subcommittee was appointed, consisting of Senators E. D. Rivers, chairman; S. G. Miller, J. Ralph Rosser, John E. Drake and B. G. O'Berry to make said investigation, and

"Whereas, said committee wrote a courteous letter to the said Randolph, requesting him to appear at a hearing set for Monday, July 25, 1927, for the purpose of answering such questions as the subcommittee might ask relative to the matter in controversy and of producing his books and records in accordance with his promise and agreement, and

"Whereas, said Randolph failed and refused to appear before said committee as per agreement, offering as an excuse for this failure to carry out his promise that he was obliged to attend a meeting of the board of trustees of Oglethorpe university when in truth and in fact he knew that no such meeting was to be held and when in truth and in fact no such meeting of said board of trustees was held, and Hearing Postponed.

"Whereas, not suspecting that said Randolph was deliberately ignoring said subcommittee and treating their courteous request and his own faithless promises with contempt, said subcommittee, relying upon his false excuse, postponed said hearing until Friday, July 29, 1927, for the purpose of examining the said Randolph and inspecting his records, etc., and

"Whereas, the said Randolph again failed and refused to appear before said subcommittee as per his promises or offer any excuse, good, bad or indifferent, true or false, for his failure to do so at said meeting of Friday, July 29, 1927, taking undue advantage of the fact that the subcommittee was not invested with power and authority to compel the appearance of witnesses and the production of records, and

"Whereas, the production of records without withholding his expressions of willingness to appear and produce his records for the scrutiny of said committee so that they might judge whether he was entitled to have granted to said association as at present constituted the extraordinary and unusual powers in said bill; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the senate of the state of Georgia, That the aforesaid subcommittee be and the same is hereby clothed with full power and authority to subpoena witnesses to compel the production of papers, books, records, accounts, and documentary evidence of every kind and character pertinent to a full, fair, complete and exhaustive investigation of said association or corporation, and to cite for contempt before the bar of the senate any, taking persons failing to obey any such summons of said committee; and be it further

Resolved, that said committee report its findings back to the senate for its recommendations thereon with regard to the necessity for this extraordinary grant of delegated power; and be it further

Resolved, that pending this investigation and reports, no further action on said bill shall be taken by the senate.

In presenting his resolution Senator Kelley declared that "it is with a deal of reluctance that I bring this matter before the senate, but we cannot let the present situation in the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial association go unchallenged and at the same time follow the example of bravery and patriotism shown by us by Lee, Jackson, Stuart and Johnson and the other Confederate heroes we revere."

He reviewed the history of the Stone Mountain memorial project, asserting that the project grew in scope and expense until it reached the point where the United Daughters of the Confederacy, who first sponsored it, needed national aid and the present association was formed.

Time Almost Up.

"The Venables decided the property to the association upon the explicit condition that it would revert to the original owners if the monument had not been completed within a period of 12 years," said the senator. "And now just nine months of that 12 years remain."

Have any of you senators been out to the mountain to see just what has been wrought there in stone? There is a head of General Lee, sculptured on the mountain by Gutzon Borglum, and a horse tattooed by someone else.

"The affairs of the entire association have been turned over to Hollins Randolph and an executive committee of the association, which is actually managing it. The rules of the association provide that five men may constitute a quorum which means that three men can do anything they want to do in its operations."

Accounting Refused.

"When a hue and a cry went up all over the southland a few months ago, demanding an accounting of the money which the coffers of the association by the devoted patriots of the south, Randolph refused to give such an accounting. Instead he merely shielded all the clerks and stenographers in certain offices, waived the rule that $5 must be paid for an active membership and let his crowd in for $1 so that he might be perpetuated in office."

"When a sister of the donor of the mountain side went to that meeting to take the part she was entitled to take, she found the door barred by policemen who would not let her in where the nefarious work was going on."

Before Senator Kelley finished his speech, President E. D. Rivers interrupted to say that the designated hour for consideration of a senate measure had arrived and the resolution went into committee tomorrow as unfinished business.

Park Body Now Proposed.

Shortly before Senator Kelley introduced his resolution, Senator Lester, author of the eminent domain measure, offered a bill which provided for creation of "The Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial Park" which would be located "at and including Stone Mountain in DeKalb county, Georgia. The measure did not specify the boundaries of the proposed park which would be administered by a board of commissioners appointed by the governor."

The commission would be empowered "at their discretion to make contracts with the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial association or other corporations for furtherance of the project of the memorial to the heroes of the Confederacy."

The bill says the commissioners shall encourage the creation of said monument and accept and enlist the aid of the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial association and such other associations, corporations or persons as may be practicable."

"I have nothing to say against the senators who introduced the bill to give the Stone Mountain Memorial association the right to condemn private property," said Senator Kelley, in his speech. "They were victimized just as I have been myself, in introducing legislative measures by request. Rogers Winter, secretary of the association, came to my desk early in this session and tried to commit me to the support of this measure, by telling me that the association had tried to buy the land it sought, and failed. I have heard testimony on the floor of this senate's committee that the association did not try to buy the land."

"One of the interested parties, a daughter of William H. Venable, former president of this senate, is living in Switzerland at the present time upon a bed of affliction, unable to protect her own interests while you senators are being asked to take her heritage away from her. I am sure you are not going to do that, when the facts are presented to you."

Need of Audit.

"What would you do, senators, if you were entrusted with the handling of public funds and the charge was made that you were wasting and squandering those funds? I would demand an audit immediately, and I know any of you would. A man who gives an accounting for money entrusted to him must of necessity be trying to hide something."

"I am not the first to make these charges, either. Mrs. Walter Grace, of Macon, a devoted official of the Daughters of the Confederacy and the widow of one of the greatest orators this state has produced, openly charged this memorial association with waste and extravagance, and said the U. D. C. would have nothing more to do with the organization until the stigma was removed."

Sensor Kelley stated that the last available report of the Stone Mountain association, as of March 31, 1925, showed that $207,317.30 had been spent up to that time, and that the association had an outstanding indebtedness of $292,349.75. He pointed out that a large sum had been realized from the sale of memorial coins and from subscriptions since that date.

FACING DEATH, MAN MARRIES SON'S MOTHER

Trenton, N. J., August 2.—(United News.)—Salvatore Merra, who is to die in the electric chair this week for the murder of a railway paymaster, was married in his death cell Tuesday to the mother of his 2-year-old son.

While five other condemned men in the New Jersey state prison peered through the bars of their cells as silent witnesses to the ceremony and while the child whose legitimacy was established by the state's highest court in the prison corridor, Merra and the sobbing woman were made one by the chaplain, Father Cornelius McNamara.

The condemned man, whose life had hung upon a single comma, a question of typography in the formal sentence passed upon him, sank back into his cell when the ceremony was over.

Earlier in the day in the State Circuit Court Judge J. W. Davis had refused to permit the technicality of a comma to delay the death sentence of the condemned man, Merra, who will die in the electric chair Friday.

Merra's counsel had argued that the sentence passed by a lower court judge against the client and others had been intended to designate life imprisonment for Merra. If the punctuation included a semicolon Merra was to die; if a comma, the argument was that he should serve a sentence of life imprisonment.

Merra was convicted of the murder of Theodore Conway, paymaster of the Public Service railway, of Newark.

CIGAR PRODUCTION IN TAMPA INCREASES

Tampa, Fla., August 2.—(AP)—Cigars manufactured here in July numbered 2,188,340 more than in July, 1926, according to figures published today on authority of the internal revenue department. The total for July this year was 39,670,620. The output in June, 1927, totaled 38,005,366, showing a considerable increase over June last year.

Virginia Upholds Program of Bond

Richmond, Va., August 2.—(AP)—Voting in Virginia's democratic primary today, at which nominees for the state senate and house of delegates were named, was extremely light, and early returns indicated that the reorganization policy of Governor Harry F. Byrd was being upheld. The unofficial returns indicate that a large percentage of the representatives will, opposition will be returned.

Considerable interest was being manifested in the tide-water section in the pro-mask measure in Newport News, which appeared badly defeated. The vote at 9 o'clock showed 1,076 against permitting parades with masks to 1,380 for the measure. While only democrats might vote in the primary, all quiet voters were permitted to vote on the pro-mask ordinance.

as to those of the two more famous prisoners.

The transfer was made quietly after lights were out. The three prisoners walked silently beside their guards through the dark interior of the huge state prison. They made no protest as they were locked into cells in the death house, only a few steps from the electric chair which may soon claim their lives.

Probe Is Completed.

The last of a long list of witnesses appeared before Governor Fuller today and the governor went to a Boston hotel tonight where he will complete the final draft of his announcement.

When he left the statehouse the governor told newspaper men he expected to have the decision ready by 8 p. m. tomorrow.

In the past four months Fuller has interviewed more than 100 witnesses in connection with the case, he has received thousands of communications from all over the world and has devoted almost every waking minute to his study of the involved and lengthy legal phases of the world-famous case.

Today for the first time in weeks he went out of the statehouse for lunch. He took his brief case with him and remained away several hours. It was apparent he had been working on his decision at some hotel in the city. He will not return to his summer home until after his decision has been announced.

Prosecutor Summoned.

At the last moment Assistant District Attorney Dudley F. Ranney was called in by the governor today to answer a number of questions regarding the prosecution's side of the case. His interview followed that of Judge Webster Thayer, the trial judge, whom the governor talked with last night.

Defense forces professed to be encouraged by Fuller's interview with Thayer and Ranney. It was said Fuller would not have brought Thayer from Maine, where he is vacationing, if he intended to uphold the court's verdict in his decision. It was declared, instead, that Fuller had summoned Thayer to give him a chance to defend himself against the reflections which a reversal of the murder verdict would carry with it. However, no intimation has come from the statehouse to lend weight to the innumerable rumors which are in the air here.

Governor Fuller scotched a report that the executive council would meet Thursday instead of Wednesday. On the contrary, his secretary said, efforts have been made to have every member on hand for the meeting tomorrow. It is almost certain that the decision will come before the council for consideration, and this has heightened the hopes of the defense. The council is the body which must pass on all executive pardons, reprieves or commutations.

Seek To Impeach Judge.

A move to impeach Judge Webster Thayer was begun tonight by Representative Roland D. Sawyer, who announced he would introduce a resolution to that effect in the next legislature.

Regardless of what happens to Sacco and Vanzetti, Sawyer said, "we face the question of Judge Thayer. Did he, while presiding over a trial in which human life was at stake, use language which reeked of the gutter and shows a distorted mind? This is being charged in placards paraded through our streets."

He said if Judge Thayer showed the prejudice which has been charged in affidavits signed by "responsible parties" he should be the subject of a legislative investigation and impeachment.

STRIKE IS PLANNED IN ALABAMA

Buenos Aires, August 2.—(United News.)—All members of the woodworkers' union were ordered by their leaders to prepare for a general strike in the event that Governor Fuller, of Massachusetts, decided death sentences of Sacco and Vanzetti must be carried out.

FARM EXEMPTION MEASURE KILLED

bill pointed out that Georgia farmers were not opposed to bearing their share of the tax burden; that the monetary savings to the farmer by the proposed amendment would be insignificant; that the measure would be equal to variation of land values and that the possibilities to use the measure as a fraudulent means of avoiding taxes on large country homes owned by city dwellers far exceed the possibilities of the measure doing good to the farmers.

Other bills disposed of by the constitutional committee include the bill to permit counties to levy a special tax to be devoted for payment of compensation under the general compensation act to county employees receiving injuries—killed by a vote of 9 to 5; a bill to decrease the term of office of county officers from four years to two years—killed by vote of 13 to 5; a bill to increase the term of legislators from two to four years—passed by vote of 7 to 6; a bill to reduce the state's valorem and income taxes—killed by vote of 7 to 6; and a local bill to permit the city of LaGrange to exceed its constitutional limit to issue bonds for purpose of improving the city-owned water works—passed unanimously.

Meeting Time Bill.

Disposition of the bill by Representative Neill, from Muscogee, providing that the meeting time of the general assembly sessions be changed from June to January was postponed until the next meeting of the committee in order to give the author of the bill an opportunity to be heard. Representative Neill had requested, it was announced, that if there was opposition to the bill sufficient to kill it in the committee, he be allowed a hearing on it.

The bill to increase the term of office of the governor from two to four years, drawn by Representative Hooper, of Fulton, was not brought up at the meeting because the substitute measure was not on hand, it was announced. Mr. Hooper stated it could be presented at the next committee meeting, which is to take place at 8 o'clock Thursday night, in the Kimball House hotel.

WIFE OF PLANTER HELD IN KILLING

Linden, Ala., August 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Gertrude Gibbs, 34, the daughter of a wealthy Thomaston planter, was charged with murder, following the shooting to death last night of her husband, Jack Gibbs, a Hugo, Ala., planter.

With her in her cell were her four children, an eight-year-old boy, five-year-old twins and a three-month-old baby. Gibbs is said to have been shot to death as he grappled with his wife in the yard of their home. Mrs. Gibbs in a statement to officers said her husband had threatened her and that she snatched a pistol from a shelf and fired out of doors. He pursued her, she said, and was killed when he attempted to wrest the weapon from her hands.

When deputies arrived at the Gibbs home they found the children playing with the man's body rolling it about the yard and calling "daddy."

One bullet fired from the pistol entered Gibbs' chin and passed through the neck severing the spinal cord at the base of the brain. Physicians said death was instantaneous.

Dr. C. M. Stallworth, of Thomaston, Ala., said today that he had treated the woman two years ago for a mental disorder. Sheriff Drinkard said she discussed the shooting rationally.

In addition to his widow and children Gibbs is survived by his father, P. J. Gibbs, of Atmore, who was to take charge of the children today.

MACON CHARTER REVISION PASSES

Favorable action on a bill providing for a new charter for the city of Macon was taken Tuesday night by the senate committee on municipal government following a public hearing at which a number of prominent Macon citizens appeared to protest against its passage.

The bill has been acted upon favorably by the house. The proposed measure carried with it before committee the approval of the delegation from Bibb county of the house and a letter urging its passage with certain amendments by Senator J. W. Bishop, of the Twenty-second district.

The present charter of Macon, according to Representatives C. Baxter Jones and Charles J. Bloch, of Bibb county, is made up of several sections of the constitution the new bill provides for a consolidation with four major changes.

Under the proposed measure the mayor of Macon will receive an increase in salary of $2,500 per year, making $7,500 as his compensation for a year.

Mayor's Terms Unlimited. The mayor of Macon under the present charter is not eligible for reelection after completion of his second term of office. Under the bill the executive may succeed himself for as many terms as he is chosen by the people.

The present Macon tax rate is $1.25 per hundred while a levy of one-fourth of one per cent is being made to pay for municipal improvements. The bill approved Tuesday night provides for a tax levy of $1.50 per hundred, one-fourth of one per cent of which will go toward retiring bonds and for municipal improvements.

The fourth major change in the charter as provided for in the bill places in the city treasury, for use as the city sees fit, the $25,000 formerly paid the water board.

Delegation Protests. Representative Charles J. Bloch appeared before the committee and explained the various phases of the bill while a large delegation of citizens, including Walter DeLoach, Judge C. L. Bartlett, C. T. Williamson, a member of the water board; Frederick W. Williams, member of city council; R. L. McKinney, publisher of the Macon News, and others appeared in opposition to the bill.

The Macon delegation urged amendments striking out the major changes as provided and requested the committee to kill the measure. The citizens urged that a referendum be attached to the bill in the event of its passage so as to allow the citizens of the municipality a chance to pass upon the charter. The referendum attachment met with strenuous opposition on the part of Representatives Jones and Bloch.

Vote and discussion of the bill were taken up behind closed doors in executive session. Following the favorable action taken by the committee, Senator J. B. Jackson, of the 21st district, announced that he would file a minority vote on the floor of the senate.

INSANE ALIEN BILL LAUDED BY SPONSOR

"Is it worth anything to the state of Georgia to get rid of its insane and criminal aliens?"

This question was asked Tuesday by Mr. C. J. Griggs, immigration inspector in charge of the Atlanta district, in discussing two bills drafted by him and now before the Georgia legislature for consideration.

"If it is worth anything to the state, the two insane and criminal alien bills before the legislature will accomplish the result of reducing the number of such persons in Georgia," Mr. Griggs said. The bills provide the furnishing of information by the state prison, insane asylum and prison camps to the immigration office regarding alien prisoners and the registration of all aliens in the state.

"There are 41 insane aliens in the asylum at Milledgeville who can not be deported because they have been there so long that the government has lost jurisdiction over them," he said. "If they had been reported in time, it might have been possible to deport them and save the state the cost of their maintenance for the rest of their lives."

Griggs said that Georgia has approximately 200 convict camps besides the state prison farm at Milledgeville. How many aliens are to be found in those camps is unknown and the bills are no records kept containing that information, and at present the only way to get it is to visit each camp and interview each prisoner. The cost of this procedure to the government is prohibitive, he said.

"But the warden can furnish the information to the government without cost to the state and with the information the government can institute deportation proceedings," he said. From a financial standpoint alone it is to the advantage of the state to get rid of its criminals and insane. It cost more to maintain a convict in a camp than his services are worth to the county.

The bills now pending before the legislature are intended to bring about co-operation between the state and federal government in the deportation of these undesirable aliens. The only cost to the state will be the stationery and postage used in notifying the government of the whereabouts of the aliens. The government will bear the entire expense incident to their deportation.

From January 1, 1923, to June 20, 1927, $2,645 has been paid to Fulton county alone for the maintenance of aliens in the county jail under order of deportation, but nearly all of them came from the U. S. penitentiary. Only one was received from the state.

EAST LAKE ANNEXATION BILL BECOMES A LAW

The measure authorizing the annexation of the town of East Lake to the city of Atlanta through an extension of the Atlanta city limits, which was passed recently by both branches of the legislature, became a law Tuesday when Governor Hardman signed the bill. At the same time the governor signed 20 other local bills which have been passed during the present session. The list signed Tuesday is as follows:

H. B. 247—Amending an act incorporating the town of Auburn so as to strike the word "Gwinnett" when the same appears and substituting therefor the word "Barrow."

H. B. 101—An act amending the charter of the city of Vienna.

H. B. 284—An act consolidating the offices of tax receiver and tax collector of Early county.

H. B. 215—An act amending an act creating the board of commissioners of roads and revenues of Fulton county.

H. B. 246—Repealing an act incorporating the town of Auburn.

H. B. 268—An act amending the charter of the city of Baxley.

REFUTES GREELEY
Atlanta Girls Warned Against West.

Gentlemen may prefer blondes, but Hollywood is well stocked with blondes and brunettes, experienced and inexperienced, according to a warning issued Tuesday by Malcolm St. Clair, director of a pictorialization of Anita Loos' book "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

St. Clair addressed a letter to Mayor I. N. Ragsdale asking Atlanta's chief executive to discourage members of the feminine sex in this state in making the "mistake" of journeying to Hollywood for parts in the cast.

Prohi Achievements In North Georgia Reported for July

Eighty distilleries, 1,622 gallons of whiskey, 127,000 gallons of beer, and 15 automobiles fell into the hands of federal prohibition agents in North Georgia during July, according to the monthly report of Howard Wright, deputy administrator. Property destroyed was estimated at $20,000, and the automobiles seized at $4,500. Sixty-three arrests made and 74 prosecutions recommended.

MISSING GIRL

Miss Waldine Griggs, of Marietta, who has been missing from her home since Saturday morning. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Griggs, of 700 Fowler Springs street, Marietta, have been unable to account for her disappearance as she had given no indication of leaving home.

Peters Street Widening Given Decided Boost

Immediate widening and repaving of Peters street, from Walker to Park streets as an emergency measure was urged Tuesday afternoon at a joint meeting of representatives of the Peters Street Improvement association, the West End Business Men's club, the Capitol View Civic league and the Atlanta Improvement association.

The gathering was held at Peters and Fair streets. More than 100 members of the organizations and property owners along the route of the proposed improvement attended. George West, president of the Peters street organization, presided.

J. Lawrence McCord, member of the Atlanta bond commission supervising administration of the $8,000,000 bond issue voted for civic improvements, and special agent of the city in acquiring the right-of-way for the project, outlined progress and declared that practically every obstacle had been removed.

If the city could post $25,000 to begin renovation of buildings along the way, Mr. McCord predicted that the entire project could be pushed to completion, and work could be begun immediately.

Speakers declared that Peters street will be an important link in Atlanta's traffic chain, especially after Pryor street and Central avenue are closed in construction of the twin viaducts. A real problem of getting vehicular traffic through from the center to the western section of the city will develop at this time, they asserted, and Peters street, widened and improved would be an ideal outlet for the added congestion.

"The right-of-way is completed, and it will take $56,000 to set buildings back on the new building line which will be established in making the 50-foot boulevard," Mr. McCord said.

"First estimates were $90,000 without water connections, but property owners along the route have been so anxious for the development that they have made liberal concessions in money and property in order to expedite the project."

"We anticipate financial aid from the Georgia Power company, the Central of Georgia and Southern railways and from certain of the property owners. These amounts we believe would cut the actual outlay which the city would be required to make to a maximum of $25,000. If we could get this amount now we would begin actual work immediately. I will submit at the next meeting of general council my options on the right-of-way and they will be referred to the streets committee for approval."

Alderman Robert F. Pennington, of the first ward; Mr. West, Abe Feldman, secretary of the Peters Street Improvement association; L. L. Faulkner, president of the West End Business Men's club, and John Merritts, former president of the Atlanta Retail Food Dealers' association, were among the speakers.

MAN UNDER $200 BOND ON LIQUOR CHARGE

George Davis, 20, of 510 Boulevard N. E., was held Tuesday by United States Commissioner L. S. Ledbetter for the federal grand jury under $200 bond on charges of possessing and selling whisky. Prohibition officers found Davis in possession of a gallon of liquor, it was alleged.

Insurance Only Sensible Guard Against Accidents

Accidents—Do they menace you?

Read these headlines clipped from Tuesday's papers:

"Four Badly Hurt in Auto Crash."
"Two Injured in Traffic Accidents."
"Two Hurt When Engine Strikes Auto."

"Woman Injured as Bus is Knocked Off Road."
"Motorcyclist Hurt in Tangle With Car."

You can't afford to figure that you won't be claimed as a victim of the ever-growing wave of accidents. None of the persons injured in the accidents described in the above headlines dreamed before the tragedies that they would be claimed.

There is only one sensible thing to do—insure yourself. Protect your own income against abrupt halt and safeguard the future of those you love.

Cheapest and most efficient protection is available to you under the terms of The Constitution's offers of the famous $7,500 travel accident policy issued by the North American Insurance company of Chicago. This old and reliable concern already has paid more than $50,000 in claims to Constitution policyholders.

The policy—which costs only the insignificant sum of $1.25 per year—provides for payment of sums ranging downward from $7,500 in case of death resulting from certain accidents; heavy cash payment for permanent injuries; and $10 weekly indemnity for disability resulting from the stated accidents. And the cost is only a fraction of a penny a day.

A train wreck, a crash of automobiles, the speeding wheels of an on-rushing car or a burning building may leave you a victim of the ever-growing wave of accidents today.

In this paper appears regular advertisements supplying full details of the great offer. Watch for them.

This $7,500 travel, $2,000 auto and $1,000 pedestrian accident policy is issued only to subscribers of The Daily and Sunday Constitution and immediate department members of a subscriber's family between the ages of 15 and 70, at $1.25 per policy per year.

One who is now taking The Daily and Sunday Constitution or will subscribe for same through carrier in Atlanta or suburbs, through an out-of-town carrier or dealer, paying for his paper weekly, monthly or otherwise, is a subscriber and is eligible.

Those taking The Daily and Sunday Constitution by mail, either through a postoffice or rural route delivery for one year, are eligible by paying $1.25 per year per policy above the subscription price.

In sending application for insurance the applicant must state name in full, give age and occupation. If beneficiary is desired, full Christian name must be given and relation of same to the insured.

FORMER GOV. COMER STILL SERIOUSLY ILL

Birmingham, Ala., August 2.—(AP) There was no change in the condition of former Governor B. B. Comer, of Alabama this morning, physicians attending him said.

Mr. Comer, who is 79 years old is suffering from an acute infection and has been seriously ill for several days. Physicians last night announced a slight improvement in his condition.

SEEKS 'GOOD WILL' FOR FLORIDA CITY

J. H. Kerrick, executive vice-president of the St. Petersburg, Fla., chamber of commerce was in Atlanta Tuesday calling on city and chamber of commerce executives, and railroad representatives.

Vice-President Kerrick represents the latest type of chamber of commerce executive. He is on a good will tour of the states whose people go to swell the throng of 150,000 tourists who winter in Florida's "Sunshine City."

He is seeking cooperation from cities and towns through which these tourists motor, and from railroads which bring those who travel by rail, in order to give his traveling public the best service possible.

"St. Petersburg's winter colony is now scattered in every part of this country and in Canada. Our representatives from the chamber of commerce are calling on these people in their home cities," Mr. Kerrick said.

"Our chamber of commerce is working 100 per cent of its organization into effect Monday at the secretary's office for the entertainment of our tourist family. Next winter we will work at the same high pressure to put the program across. This is one reason why we get 43.9 per cent more first year people each year. We also know that only through cooperation with other southern cities can we bring the north to be year after year southern winter guests."

Auto Tags Half Price.

Sale of automobile licenses at half price for the remainder of 1927 went into effect Monday at the secretary's office at the capitol. The tags are good until March 1, 1928, under the present law.

BURGLARS FOILED AT SATTERWHITE FURNITURE STORE

Clumsy methods and a probable lack of right equipment frustrated burglars who attempted to open the safe of the Satterwhite Furniture company at 292 Peachtree street, several nights ago. The attempted robbery was discovered Sunday afternoon by H. A. Satterwhite, a member of the firm, when he entered the office and found the safe mutilated and the furniture thrown around.

An expert safe repairer spent three hours Monday opening the safe to recover the contents, $350 and some valuable papers, it was said. The combination had been chiseled off and a large square cut out of the safe front, but the burglars did not complete their work and had to leave without any loot, it was reported.

Power Audit Starts Today; Commission Will Bear Expense

Work on the audit of the street railway department of the Georgia Power company, asked by City Attorney James L. Mayson during the recent hearing on the company's petition for a 10-cent cash fare, will start today, according to James A. Perry, chairman of the Georgia public service commission.

The audit will be made by the Audit Company of the South and will be under the direction of the commission, it was stated. Expenses incurred in making the audit will be paid by the public service commission from its contingent fund, Mr. Perry said.

It has been estimated that it will take from 20 to 40 days to complete the audit, since it dates back from December 31, 1923, when an audit was made by Ernst & Ernst.

PEACHTREE GARDENS DECLARED BANKRUPT

Two involuntary petitions in bankruptcy were filed Tuesday in United States district court against the Wiece Country club, a cabaret and night club known as Peachtree Gardens, and the Southern Realty and Trust company, of 608 Atlanta Trust building.

Jeome Jones Jr., was appointed as receiver for the Wiece Country club under an order by Judge Tilson, bond being fixed at $1,000. The petitioning creditors in the country club case are T. R. Benning, contractor, $28,086.92; Norman F. Stambaugh, $350, and Kistner's Market, $103.70, a total of $28,638.95. The case was set for a hearing on August 11.

The country club will not close, in spite of the bankruptcy proceedings, and the affairs of the organization will be satisfactorily adjusted within a few days, according to a statement by William J. Davis, Jr., attorney, and chairman of the creditors' committee.

H. C. Holbrook was appointed receiver of the Southern Realty and Trust company, with bond fixed at $500. The petitioning creditors are Roberts & McGeeney, Inc., $20,000; Colter, $1,250, and Merchants Towel Supply company, $11.25, a total of $21,261.25. The company is alleged to have admitted insolvency in the case of George Ripley, Jr., vs. the Southern Realty and Trust company in superior court.

THE COOLIDGE STATEMENT.
The announcement of President Coolidge that he does "not choose to run for president in 1928" is significant in many respects.

It does not mean, as is clearly evident by the adroit wording of the sentence, that he will not run for president, nor does it mean that an effort will not be made to have him nominated.

In the event he is nominated he will, of course, make the race. But it does mean that the army of anti-Coolidge republicans, who have other candidates in mind, may be encouraged in their ambitions to have their respective candidates go before the 1928 convention with a fair fighting area in front of them.

For months there has grown a strong feeling against what is termed "a third-term candidate." As a matter of fact the president has only been elected to one term, having succeeded to the unexpired term of the late President Harding after the latter's death. And yet, should he be reelected to another term he will have served longer than any other president, and that possible situation naturally arouses antagonisms and creates an opportunity for rabid attacks by the anti-Coolidge factions, of which there are more than one.

The president's rather startling statement will start new speculation as to who will be the outstanding candidate for the republican nomination in 1928.

In frankness, unless he says "no" definitely the present president will be the leading candidate. His own words made public Tuesday would indicate he will not say "no" at the psychological moment. He depends, probably, upon the old theory of statesmanship that the office should seek the man.

Aside from that possible situation Vice President Dawes would undoubtedly be a strong candidate, and from his own state of Illinois would go also the name of former Governor Lowden, who probably is stronger in the agricultural sections of the west than any other leader in the republican party.

Despite the speculation and the comment that will be created by the president's brief announcement, however, it is very evident that President Coolidge's name will be presented to the convention unless he directs otherwise.

In that event his nomination for another term may be predicted upon fairly safe ground.

TO STANDARDIZE SCHOOLS.
The bill of Senator Elders to make the county unit in common school administration should pass.

The Constitution has consistently and vigorously urged this for years. It is the first step toward equalization of opportunities.

As the situation stands one district in a county—around the county seat or an industrial center—may have taxable values sufficient to warrant a full nine months' term with capable teachers, while another district in the same county may have only cheap farm lands to assess and thereby can have only a six or seven months' term with poorly paid and incapable teachers.

Such a situation—and it prevails all over Georgia—is fundamentally wrong.

If the county is made the unit all schools in any county will be on a parity, and that is what is necessary to make the school system fair and non-discriminatory.

With the passage of this bill there should also be provided a state equalization fund to bring the school standard of the poor counties up to the standard of the rich counties so that there may be no discrimination anywhere.

parity, and the parity should be based upon the highest standard of school efficiency.

Georgia has made marvelous progress in the past few years in her common school work. The tendency toward consolidated schools has been encouraging. The whole school foundation has been strengthened. But she will not have reached the goal until equal opportunities have been provided.

It is sincerely hoped that this assembly will not adjourn until the county has been made the administrative unit instead of the district, and until the schools of the poorest county have been placed on the same standard basis as the schools of the richest county. Legislators should keep this in mind.

THE TOBACCO SEASON.
The Georgia tobacco season opened at all the marts in the belt Tuesday with every prospect of success.

Prices are good and will get better as the better grades arrive on the brakes.

The Georgia crop this year will probably bring a gross of $12,000,000. The industry is growing and promises better each year.

There is no question as to its permanency for there is produced no finer grades than in this state, the adaptability of the soil in at least 60 counties being unquestioned.

This year's acreage is around 55,000 and 15,000 farmers are engaged in tobacco production. Many of these have been brought into the state within the past four years, North Carolina perhaps furnishing the largest number.

Last year the crop brought $9,500,000. There were 51,000 acres in cultivation.

Georgia tobacco is of the bright leaf variety and is used in the manufacture of cigarettes, the leading cigarette manufacturing companies of the world being large buyers on the Georgia markets.

Sales markets opened Tuesday in Douglas, Blackshear, Vidalia, Valdosta, Nashville, Baxley, Metter, Waycross, Habiba, Moultrie, Thomasville, Bainbridge, Fitzgerald, Hazlehurst, Quitman, Tifton, Cairo, Camilla, Pelham, Adel and Alma.

The tobacco sale season extends over a period of six weeks.

With the growth of tobacco production in this state there must come in time factories for the utilization of the raw product, just as they came to North Carolina when that state was leading in tobacco cultivation.

THE ALABAMA FLOGGERS.
The first reported conviction of five woman-floggers at Florence, Alabama, will be approved by common public opinion, in spite of the small fines imposed as punishment for the lawless and brutal offense.

This spirit of spasmodic mob "justice" that has been running rampant in this and nearby states in late years must be ruthlessly run down and crushed as one would crush a viper's head. Civilization is a failure when such volunteer vindicators of morals and behavior are allowed immunity from penalties.

Civic security for life, limb, or health, demand that every agency of law, order, and organized justice take up arms against the inhuman perpetrators of these flogging orgies. They dishonor the state and disgrace the justice and righteousness of the community.

We seem here in the south to be unusually afflicted by these self-elected censors, who show no respect for law, divine or human, and no regard for personal rights.

Alabama is to be commended that this conviction has been achieved and that her courts are not asleep. The example is one to be repeated in every community where like crimes occur.

"Stop and Get With Me" is a sign on a Georgia service station. In smaller letters beneath this appears: "If Worn Out From the Trip, You Can Retire Here."

For sanitary reasons hot dog stands have been ordered off the streets of Scarsdale, N. Y. No longer do its inhabitants feel the worst.

This may be a summerless summer, but just the same please hold back a little of the heat and dispense it along about January.

A proposed law to limit expenses of candidates for governor to $5,000 will take a lot of joy out of the campaign.

WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Balzac's Struggle.

Few writers knew as much tribulation in their lives as Honoré de Balzac, according to a new volume of research on the great French author. From this book we learn that Balzac's time already knew the young journalists were stifled to produce some creative work some day, but whose ambitions were stifled by the crushing burden of routine. Balzac had to do the same. He even had to work on mile-long translations in order to make a living. During all that time the work he wanted to undertake had to remain in abeyance. He felt at the point of exhaustion, he suddenly gained new courage. His imagination had remained at the boiling point throughout the improvident years and finally triumphed. Still he had to accept the generosity of certain "angels" of his day. With out their aid he would have been forced to carry on translations and "sterile newspaper work" as he called it. Balzac's ambition of "coming to the top presents itself for comparison. But in Balzac's case there were no "angels," only dogged persistence and self-confidence won the day.

Some Hidden History.

This writer, who knows the facts from personal contact with them during the making of the constitution, cannot blame those who, for lack of information, have gone astray in this matter.

The fact is that the constitution of 1877 was made, the framers of it were not sure that a radical republican congress would not be elected to revise it. It was as constituting for the state "a public form of government" that the congress would guarantee, and demand the other constitution, or a revision of that one, he made in order to maintain the representatives of the state in the congress.

It was a great event, an event should happen, as it will, and to anticipate it. General Toombs and his colleagues in the convention provided the note in the constitution, in the provision above quoted.

It was meant to give the general assembly the right and power to call a convention without the necessity of holding a referendum election. Under it was to be made quick action to be taken to make any revision of the constitution a republican congress might require.

LOOKING AND LISTENING

BY SAM W. SMALL

Another Batch of Observations on the New Constitution Controversy.

By one vote the senate yesterday refused to sustain the ruling of President Coolidge that the bill to submit the question of "for or against" a constitution to the people required only a majority, and not a two-thirds vote.

President Coolidge's action was emphatically correct in his ruling, both on the merits of the question and on the purpose of the constitution and under accepted parliamentary practice.

The question at issue was a simple referendum to the people, similar to any other referendum. The bill did not "call" a convention, but only provided for a referendum to the people on a special election to decide to call one.

The constitution provides that "no convention of the people shall be called by the general assembly, to revise, amend or change this constitution, unless by the concurrence of each house of the general assembly."

That provision reveals its intention as clearly as the English language could do it.

The New Day Advances.
Senator Elders, I believe, was justified in declaring that the day is advancing when a new Georgia constitution is being made.

Today, after 50 years, we have in Georgia a greatly better educated and more ambitious people than those who ratified the constitution of 1868.

It was a great event, an event should happen, as it will, and to anticipate it. General Toombs and his colleagues in the convention provided the note in the constitution, in the provision above quoted.

PRESIDENT'S ACTION WIDELY DISCUSSED

not choose to run, but my opinion is that the people of the country will do the choosing for him and that he will acquiesce. His record in office has been so magnificent that we ought to keep him there for four years more. I think before many days there will be a demand from the country to which he will have to listen."

GOVERNOR ALFRED E. SMITH.
New York, August 2.—(AP)—Governor Alfred E. Smith today declined to comment on the announcement by President Coolidge that he "does not choose to run" for president in 1928.

SECRETARY HUBERT WORK.
Mammoth Hot Springs, Yellowstone National Park, August 2.—(AP)—Secretary Hubert Work, of the department of the interior, now on a tour of Indian reservations and national parks, commented upon the announcement of President Coolidge as follows: "It will be a great misfortune to the country if he will not consent to be re-nominated."

SENATOR C. C. DILL.
Spokane, Wash., August 2.—(AP)—President Coolidge's decision not to seek the 1928 nomination "will make him a bigger man in the public eye." United States Senator C. C. Dill, democrat of Washington, said here today.

"I have been predicting this for two months," he said, when informed of the president's decision, "but I am just a little surprised that he should make the announcement this early."

"Mr. Coolidge is a man greatly influenced by the history and tradition of the country. And there has been a subtle campaign going on against him by the opposition of his own party, seeking to place on him the responsibility for seeking a third term nomination, rather than to have the demand for a third term come from the people."

"The president is to be congratulated on his adherence to the tradition that has become almost a part of the law. It will make him a bigger man than ever."

SENATOR PETER NORBECK.
Rapid City, S. D., August 2.—(AP)—"I'm surprised," was the only comment of Senator Peter Norbeck, of South Dakota, when he heard of the announcement of President Coolidge regarding his 1928 candidacy.

GOVERNOR McMULLEN.
Lincoln, Neb., August 2.—(AP)—Governor Adam McMullen, of Nebraska, leader of the Lowden-for-president forces in this state, interpreted the president's decision today as an opportunity to urge renewed effort on the part of the agricultural states to support someone in sympathy with problems of agriculture.

"No man at the present time measures up to the requirements of the office," Governor McMullen said. "The former Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois. He is conversant with industrial conditions as well as agricultural needs, and would be a just justice is accorded all activities." Governor McMullen recently led a Nebraska delegation to the Lowden "camp" urging Lowden to become a candidate for president.

SENATOR THOMAS SCHALL.
Minneapolis, August 2.—(AP)—Senator Thomas D. Schall, republican of Minnesota, commenting on President Coolidge's announcement, said: "I am surprised and sorry to hear it. I had expected Mr. Coolidge to be the republican candidate in 1928, and felt he could have been re-elected easily."

JULIUS ROSENWALD.
Chicago, August 2.—(AP)—President Coolidge's withdrawal from the race for 1928, said Julius Rosenwald, Chicago financier. "He made an exceptionally able president and the country greatly profited by his service. He is a man of great ability and a great executive."

FRANK J. LUND.
Des Moines, August 2.—(AP)—Frank J. Lund, chairman of the Iowa Lowden-for-president committee, declared President Coolidge's decision not to be a candidate in 1928 for no lack of effort on the part of the Lowden forces for the past will have another candidate of the same type."

CHARLES D. HILLES.
New York, August 2.—(AP)—A belief that President Coolidge would be a candidate in the next presidential election was made "without reservation" by Charles D. Hilles, vice chairman of the republican national committee.

The president's laconic statement was entirely unexpected, and I regret his action," Hilles said. "He is a singularly self-reliant man. I believe he took his own course in the decision was announced, and I think he made the statement without any reservation except that if a republic should confront the country in 1928, and it should clearly be a duty to run, he will be free to do so. Otherwise I think he intends this to be final."

"He has had the satisfaction of knowing that he would have been re-nominated by an overwhelming majority."

SENATOR CAPPER.
Custer, S. D., August 2.—(AP)—Senator Capper, republican, Kansas, who was with President Coolidge when he made his announcement that he did not choose to run next year, stated upon leaving the summer white house today that he did not think the announcement would materially change the situation.

"I have not discussed the president's statement with him," he said upon leaving here for Kansas. "I cannot say whether the announcement materially changes the situation. It places the responsibility squarely with the republican party as to the choice of a nominee next year."

JOSEPHUS DANIELS.
Raleigh, N. C., August 2.—(AP)—Josephus Daniels, wartime secretary of the navy, in an editorial in The News and Observer, tomorrow will say: "What does Mr. Coolidge mean? Either he has been unfortunate in conveying his intention not to run or he chooses his declaration as the inauguration of a campaign for the nomination, which he will only make by being persuaded to depart from personal desire. At no time has it been suggested that Mr. Coolidge was an active candidate. A man in the white house never needs to announce his candidacy. Silence gives consent and his friends do the announcing. I do not choose to run, a sort of 'three on the lurch' gesture."

"Mr. Coolidge owes it to the country to make his intention clear."

Michael Deserts His Toys

STILL LOVES TO TEASE DOGS, SAYS MARIE

To Sit on Rumanian Throne

Bucharest, August 2.—(AP)—King Michael, Rumania's deep-dimpled, golden-haired, blue-eyed sovereign, renounced his toys and his pet dog today to sit on the throne in the royal palace at Bucharest where the regency formally established itself.

The lively little child, whom his grandmother, Queen Marie, calls "Mad Micky," because of his mischievous, impulsive nature, was formally crowned as king, for that ceremony will come only when he is 18, but merely went through the form of sitting upon the throne while the regency disposed of a number of state matters.

Six-year-old Michael was much interested in the lavish surroundings of the throne room, his attention being called especially by the beautiful polished hardwood floor which he remarked in a childish way, "I would make a fine place for him to try to speak again in terms which can be understood."

SENATOR FERRIS.
Big Rapids, Mich., August 2.—(AP)—United States Senator Ferris, democrat, Michigan, made the following comment on the announcement: "If the report I have is correct I cannot see that it is a declaration at all but rather a suggestion that the president is really not going to run. I do not expect Coolidge to run for I see an implied promise of an element in 'choose.' He did not say 'will not.' By this statement, the president has placed all candidates on an even footing. He believes the president is looking for a positive expression of support."

CLEM SHAEVER.
Fairmont, W. Va., August 2.—(AP)—Clem Shaver, chairman of the democratic national committee, said tonight he was "not surprised at President Coolidge's announcement. He did not 'choose' to become a candidate for president again in 1928. It makes the political situation doubly interesting," Mr. Shaver added.

GOVERNOR HAMMILL.
Des Moines, Ia., August 2.—(AP)—Governor Hammill, Ia., said he believed President Coolidge would be induced to take the republican presidential nomination.

Governor Hammill said he believed the president could be persuaded to run by his friends or, if nominated by the republican national convention, he would decline the honor. A positive statement that under no circumstances would Mr. Hammill accept the presidency would have strengthened the candidacy of Frank G. Lowden, of Illinois, Hammill said.

MAYOR OF CHICAGO.
Chicago, August 2.—(United News)—Mayor William H. Doolittle, of Chicago, said Coolidge "has been Chicago's friend."

BLACK REASSURES ADAR CREDITORS
The Adair Realty and Loan company were fixed by a committee of those creditors.

"The Adair Realty and Loan company in the four months of its operation has made net approximately $17,000. Unless the Adair Realty and Loan company had been organized not only would this $17,000 have been lost to creditors of Adair Realty and Trust company, but the value of the departments would have been lost to the Adair Realty and Trust company."

"I have no comment to make upon the bill for the reorganization of the state court other than to regret that it may create misapprehension on the part of the public and may result in the loss of the Adair Realty and Trust company in that it may impair to a great extent the value of the very departments which were put into the Adair Realty and Trust company as an effort to conserve their values."

Officers to Continue.
Under the order of Honorable William J. Tilson, United States judge, of date August 1, 1927, the officers of the Adair Realty and Loan company as my agents as trustee of the assets of Adair Realty and Trust company, are ordered to continue in the management of the Adair Realty and Loan company and to conduct the business of the Adair Realty and Loan company. Under the order of the reorganization of the insurance department and the real estate department of the Adair Realty and Loan company will be continued by the federal court order of Judge Tilson, the patrons of these departments will have the added protection of the federal court of the United States court for such continuance of business."

SUIT AGAINST ADAR LOAN REINSTATED BY TILSON.
Acting on a petition by Eugene R. Black, trustee of the Adair Realty and Trust company, for direction, Federal Judge William J. Tilson Tuesday filed an order with the clerk of the district court ordering the transfer from the Adair Realty and Trust company are not to be relinquished without an order from federal court, and that the proceeding of suit brought by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company in Fulton superior court for receivership of the Adair Realty and Loan company be temporarily discontinued.

Under Judge Tilson's order, which upsets the appointment of Edgar Watkins, attorney, and Arthur Lucas, theatrical man, as receivers for the Adair Realty and Loan company by superior court, both parties are required to show cause on August 10 as to why a final injunction should not issue.

Jurisdiction of the assets of the loan company is preserved in federal court, and Forrester, Adair, and Robin Adams, as agents of the Adair Realty and Trust company, are to continue the affairs of the company under the federal court order. Judge Tilson issued his order following receipt of a petition presented by Sanders, McDaniel and William H. Sibley for Mr. Black.

$14,999 TAX LIEN FILED AGAINST ADAR & SENTER.
A tax lien for $14,999 was filed Tuesday in United States district court by J. T. Rose, collector of internal revenue, against Adair & Senter, construction company which recently was declared bankrupt. Adair & Senter is a subsidiary company of the Adair Realty and Trust company, now in bankruptcy proceedings.

Forestry Conference.
Waycross, Ga., August 2.—(Special)—The Georgia state forestry department has announced a forestry conference to be held in Waycross, August 31. The purpose of this conference is to have the machinery men give a practical demonstration of all machinery suitable for fire line construction.

Essence of Project.
The essence of the Japanese project it is understood is this: It provides for the maintenance of the status quo, so far as the British and Japanese, and gives the United States an opportunity to "catch up" with them in powerfully armed naval armaments.

The proposal declares that Great Britain and Japan shall cease, up to 1931, from any building of large cruisers and destroyers already authorized. It fixes the number of 10,000-ton cruisers to be built up to 1931 at 12 for Great Britain and the United States and 10 for Japan.

This proposal is being closely examined to see if it means that Great Britain and Japan can only carry out their naval program by building up to 1931 the number of 10,000-ton cruisers to be built up to 1931 at 12 for Great Britain and the United States and 10 for Japan.

Under this interpretation the "built and building" would then constitute the total tonnage limitation for Great Britain and Japan up to 1931 and in the case of Great Britain it is estimated that it would bring the British naval tonnage under the limit of 35,000 tons, which is the figure for the Americans.

The British and Japanese to understand a few weeks ago that they would be willing to accept a limitation in order to reach an agreement.

COOLIDGE STATEMENT PASSES WAY FOR PRESIDENTIAL BATTLE

Views of Leading Newspapers On Coolidge's Announcement

(By Lead Voted To The Constitution and the Chicago Tribune.)

Editorial comment on the president's announcement principally was concerned with the change in the political map, the unexpectedness of the statement, and with conjecture upon chances of various politicians of attaining the nomination. Some doubted the announcement definitely removed President Coolidge as a candidate.

Various comment follows:

New York Times: President Coolidge will have spurred both political parties to unwonted activity at this stage of the presidential campaign. The friends of Speaker Longworth, of Governor Lowden, of Vice President Dawes, and perhaps of others, will be warranted in maintaining that Mr. Coolidge himself is out of the field and that it is at last open to them. What would be their feelings; what would be the public verdict, if Mr. Coolidge were thus to encourage these separate movements for another nominee, although only proposing in the back of his mind to let them have their fling for while and finally take away from them the fruits of victory? It is only fair to the president to suppose that he means to be fair to his fellow republicans.

Indianapolis Star: "President Coolidge involuntarily abandoning all the advantage his position as incumbent gives him, and thereby placing himself at a disadvantage, is a move which is likely to consolidate sentiment and support and to make him so plainly the favorite that victory will be insured before the race begins."

Chattanooga Times: "President Coolidge has, to all intents and purposes, removed himself from the race, leaving another term in the white house. For while it may be argued that the statement is so worded as not to prevent Mr. Coolidge's accepting the nomination, the fact remains that conditions within the republican party are such as to render the drafting of the president for another term extremely improbable, if not impossible."

Philadelphia Inquirer: "On the anniversary of his accession to the presidency, because of the death of President Harding, Calvin Coolidge makes it known that he does not choose to run again. His statement is definite. It comes in the nature of a bombshell. . . . It will be received by the general public with regret; it will be acceptable to a host of candidates to all of whom the fences are down. From a quiet summer we shall be plunged shortly into a scramble for public favor. Vice President Dawes is entitled to the center of the stage. There are others—plenty of others. The fireworks are ready to be lighted."

Baltimore Sun: "On the whole, the probabilities are that the president has been influenced principally by the third term issue. Opposition on that ground has undoubtedly been growing. And it had become increasingly probable that the senate in the next session would adopt an anti-third term resolution."

Los Angeles Times: (Journalistic leader of pro-Coolidge opinion in southern California.) "The interpretation of President Coolidge's statement as 'putting it up to the American people to say how they feel about his reelection.' The Times says: 'Those who are hopeful that the president will not be a candidate are seizing upon his brief and unelaborated statement and twisting it into a positive refusal to stand for a third term, regardless of the popular will. . . . The president's statement does not say anything of the kind. What he has said is that he does not wish to run; that his personal choice would be to relinquish the tremendous burden of his high office. It is what the people want and not what the president wants which will decide whether Coolidge will be a candidate next year.'"

Richmond Times-Dispatch: "President Coolidge has shot an arrow into the air. Or, as the unpunctured put it,

Your tongue tells when you need

alotals

Coated tongue, dry mouth, bad breath, muddy skin, groggy nerves and sour stomach suggest its use.

statement and say, 'Note, please, I did not say I would not accept a nomination if offered me without consultation on my part. I merely said, I do not choose to run.'"

"And so, after all, the public knows little more than it knew before."

The Columbus State: "That President Coolidge's statement that he does not 'choose to run for president' was designed 'to put across to his political henchmen and warlocks that Barkis is willing' to be thrust forward as a nominee of his party; but thinks it is inadvisable in view, possibly, of the boisterous and hilariously aroused by his clowning in the Black Hills and elsewhere for the nomination to ask or to demand the nomination for a third term."

"He will not ask the crowd," the paper says, "but would not, like Caesar, let it be thrice upon the Lupar Cal."

After expressing the opinion that Mr. Coolidge is not so astute politically as his supporters say, it continues:

"It was not necessary, and therefore a blunder, for him to thrust forward this statement. His assertion that he must have known that the entire nation would immediately give it its only possible interpretation."

The Norfolk Virginian-Pilot: "The president's statement lacks decision and finality and can only be rationalized as an effort on the part of its maker to equip his renunciation with a string. . . . It is a bold and audacious move."

The New York World: "There will be some of them (Coolidge's supporters) who will say that the president's statement is a move to let them know that he has done a great service in the preservation of the essential spirit of the American constitutional system."

Denver Rocky Mountain News: "If he had cared to burn completely his bridges President Coolidge might have been more emphatic. As it is, his declaration must be taken at the face value of the notification slip."

New York Daily News: "There may be facts behind his refusal to run which we do not know. Perhaps he has scruples against even the designation of a third term which would be a step toward a permanent presidency. Perhaps he feels that he will stand higher in the estimation of future generations if he quits now. Perhaps this year's campaign will be a more successful one than the last, and he has decided not to run for president in 1928."

The Washington Post: "Usually credited with representing the administration's views: 'Overstuffed brains are busy reading into the (Coolidge) announcement a political strategy, but the American people do not look upon Mr. Coolidge as a political trickster who weighs his words. They know that he weighs his words. When he has announced that he does not choose to run, they know that he will not run. He has eliminated himself from next year's campaign. . . . The announcement of Mr. Coolidge's renunciation remove all doubt as to its sincerity.'"

The Dallas News: "It must be admitted that if Mr. Coolidge meant to eliminate himself from consideration in 1928 he hit on an old formula for success. . . . The cavilings of the cynics will not now men from perceiving it as a full and definite renunciation of an ambition to serve another term in the white house."

Detroit Free Press: "The permanent renunciation by the vast majority of Americans to have a president of a long and carefully considered decision is bound to be a feeling of deep regret mixed with a sensation of genuine anxiety concerning the future of the government. . . . The announcement from Rapid City opens the gulf of uncertainty and disquiet before the nation."

The New York Herald-Tribune: "The statement seems to be more an expression of personal feeling with regard to a situation in which the president could hardly escape the appearance of being actively a candidate to succeed himself. What would the president do . . . if he had to choose between his personal inclination and his obligation as a citizen and an American? . . . He believes firmly that such a call will come and that he will respond to it."

Albany (N. Y.) Knickerbocker Press: "The announcement will be the signal for the raising of presidential lightning rods all the way across the country, or at least in Idaho. But back to the excitement of the moment, caused by the brief word from out of the Black Hills, there will lack a strong surprise that in this respect the last word has not been spoken."

The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette: "The fact remains that the republican party wants Mr. Coolidge for its candidate and will double its efforts to secure his nomination. . . . The announcement, it grows steadily more apparent that he will have to listen to the demands of his party."

The Charlotte Observer: "The announcement regarding President Coolidge's renunciation: 'President Coolidge did not say he will not accept the nomination in 1928. . . . He did not say he would not run. He left the way open. . . . When the time comes for a final decision he can say 'no' with finality and point to his brief, startling statement issued yesterday, as indicative of what his attitude has been all along. . . . On the other hand, if the nomination should be offered him without an open contest, he could point to yesterday's statement and say, 'Note, please, I did not say I would not accept a nomination if offered me without consultation on my part. I merely said, I do not choose to run.'"

President Ends 1928 Speculation

ing out at the gloomy day for a few minutes. Then the correspondents were admitted to the room. The door was closed. Everett Sanders, his secretary, stood guard.

The only other person in the dimly lighted place was Senator Arthur Capper, republican of Kansas, who is the "resident's guest."

When assured that every one was there, Mr. Coolidge who had carefully read the slip that they had to sign, announced that if the correspondents would form a line he would pass a slip to each of them.

President Serious. He did not smile as he had earlier in the day when the newspapermen came in for their regular bi-weekly conference with him.

The line was formed. The atmosphere was tense. Everyone knew that something was about to happen, but the only thing the newspapermen had received was that it was not a statement on Geneva, as had been expected.

As the correspondents passed by the president gave them each a little slip.

Over In Minute. It was all over in a minute. Then Sanders opened the door and the newspapermen dashed for their wires.

Mr. Coolidge's friends say that he had no other motive than to make the announcement on the terms of his own choice. . . . The day he was inducted into office. They, of course, admit as the president himself has, that he was deeply disappointed at the apparent failure of the Geneva disarmament conference, but this may have no bearing on his announcement.

He knew that if Great Britain carried out the plans it suggested to the conference of building a much larger navy, this government would be compelled to follow suit. . . . The development would hinder his plans for further economies.

He already has given up hope for success of the meeting and announced in his regular conference that he would not permit the meeting to adjourn until fall to save his face. . . . It was indicated that he had issued orders to Hugh Gibson, head of the American delegation there, that the conference must stand or fall upon the present situation.

Goes to Lunch. When the simple ceremony today was over, the president betrayed no sign of emotion. Having decided not to seek another term, he went out and smiled to the groups of country people outside the school house executive offices, climbed into the white house automobile and went home for lunch.

public leaders at the convention next year.

While his statement definitely puts him out of the race and may quash third term opposition which had editorially been raised against him, it would give him another chance to say "yes" or "no" if the convention should nominate him anyway.

Whether this possibility becomes actual, the statement is certain to have the effect of encouraging candidates of other republican leaders whom have been mentioned as prospective presidential candidates.

Hoover's Statement. Secretary Herbert Hoover, who is considered the foremost of the likely candidates, was here a few days ago. When asked if he was a candidate, he said:

"I am not. To say anything else at this time, would be considered disloyalty to my chief."

But the statement of Mr. Coolidge that he will not release the in the party who think like Hoover and result in a "free-for-all" scramble for the nomination.

Anonymous sources, Speaker Nicholas Longworth, of the house, and former Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, are among the most prominent.

Several months ago it had been considered likely that Hoover would succeed to the presidency's strength in the party if Mr. Coolidge decided not to run. . . . Since then, however, Mr. Coolidge has not been so intimate with his secretary of commerce as formerly.

Those who follow Washington affairs closely had been convinced that Mr. Coolidge might not be entirely satisfied with the publicity and mention which Hoover was receiving as a prospective presidential candidate and there was a feeling that the intimacy between the two had been broken.

Hoover Out West. Hoover, however, is now on a tour through the west, which is again stirring up common concern over the possibility that he should run.

Hoover gained much political strength among both the few republicans and many democrats in the south and west. . . . He also has strength on the Pacific coast, his home being in California.

Dawes has never worked closely with the president, although it is pointed out that Mr. Coolidge might have been relying on his strength over to his vice president to carry on the work he had begun. Dawes favored the McNary-Haugen bill, and helped the senate floor frame the McNary-Haugen bill. The president vetoed the measure the two never came to an open break and Dawes, at least, is eligible as a successor.

Longworth's Position. Longworth voted against the 18th amendment and it is hardly likely that he will run. . . . His strength to the speaker of the house. But Longworth is bound to be a formidable candidate in the next year for the convention. . . . If Mr. Coolidge is not drafted.

Lowden, of course, has been considered the leading opponent of Mr. Coolidge for the white house. . . . He has campaigned through the west for the McNary-Haugen bill and some of the president's closest friends have criticized him. . . . The newspapermen in a few days form Governor Stan R. McGahey, of Nebraska, delivered a speech here denouncing Lowden's farm program. . . . Mr. McGahey is a republican. . . . The president since he arrived in the Black Hills for his summer vacation.

Therefore it is hardly possible that Lowden will get much of the Coolidge support, or that Mr. Coolidge would attempt to exert any influence for Lowden.

May Aid Lowden. Mr. Coolidge's statement, however, does help the Lowden candidacy because many of the republican national convention insist that he run. . . . As it is the Courier-Journal accepts the president's words at their face value. It believes that it is his present will not to run. . . . It may change that will within the next twelve months, is another question—a problem to which his brief announcement offers no solution.

Political End Debated. As the Coolidge would still yield to the call of his party, the question of whether his announcement at this time was good politics is being debated. . . . Some thought that he admitted weakness by this accepting responsibility for a nomination campaign and that he has opened the way for other candidates to get into the race. . . . Others thought that Coolidge, if he is willing to run again under pressure, is playing good politics in that he puts responsibility for another term on the shoulders of the party. . . . It is up to the party to decide whether to accept or not. . . . Just what will develop remains to be seen. . . . Many politicians will be guided by the pressure to Coolidge's announcement.

PRESIDENT'S WIFE DID NOT INFLUENCE DECISION ON RACE

Rapid City, S. D., August 2.—(AP)—Whether Mrs. Coolidge had been previously advised of the unexpected statement the president made today is unknown but it is safe to say that her wishes had nothing to do with it.

And it seems further assured that she will never talk about it because it always has been her policy to refrain from public discussion of any kind in political discussions of any kind.

While it is known that Mrs. Coolidge has never been strongly desirous of another full-term in the white house, it is also true that she rarely consults her husband where the president's public relations are concerned. She has always taken the viewpoint that while Mr. Coolidge is the president, she is the first lady.

Problems to engage him without adding to their weight by raising questions as to their own personal affairs.

Shares of Baldwin common both operators, seem to lend color to this theory. Brokers' loans, however, increased more than $1,000,000 last week. The total of the company's highest figure on record and about $500,000,000 above those outstanding for the corresponding period of last year.

In the continuation of the "bull market" today, more than 50 issues moved into new high territory. The Dow Jones Industrial Average, a feature, scoring a sensational extreme rise of nearly 17 points to 141 at the expense of a large short interest. . . . The company had declared an extra dividend of 25 cents.

Among the more prominent issues which established new peaks were General Motors, United States Steel, American Telephone and Telegraph, Woolworth, Atchafalpa, New York Central, Union Pacific and Southern Railway.

LOWDEN BACKER. Des Moines, Iowa, August 2.—(AP)—Decision of President Coolidge not to seek a third term nomination for president places Frank O. Lowden, at the very least, in a position of honor in the next convention. . . . A. C. Gustafson, chief clerk of the Iowa house of representatives, and principal organizer of the "Lowden for President" campaign in middle western states, said today.

the fourth anniversary of his inauguration by the light of the oil lamp at Plymouth, Vt. Politicians see other reasons in addition to this sentimental one for the statement at this time. There have been rumblings of discontent from the west. The third term issue, while dormant now, threatens to erupt at the next convention. . . . The resolution of the subject.

Above Suspicion. Possibly Coolidge felt that the time to make his statement was before the pressure became strong. If he is not renominated the record of history would show that he renounced another term at a time when his party was clamoring for his renomination.

If he is renominated history will show that he was after he had plainly stated his desire not to be a candidate again. In either case Coolidge has removed himself from the suspicion of seeking reelection.

Lowden's friends appear to regard Coolidge's renunciation as a victory in spite of his announcement. Senator Hiram Johnson and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler took the other view that Coolidge is now out of the race.

Already it is apparent that one element in the party will regard Coolidge as an available candidate and will work to bring about his nomination. It is also likely that others will take the position that the race is now a free-for-all whether Coolidge lets his name be used or not. Just what will develop remains to be seen. . . . Many politicians will be guided by the pressure to Coolidge's announcement.

Estelle Worse

Los Angeles, August 2.—(AP)—Estelle Taylor, picture actress and wife of Jack Dempsey, is seriously ill at the Dempsey home here from a condition which friends say border on a complete nervous collapse.

Mrs. Dempsey has been confined to her bed for several weeks and the belief among her closest friends is that she has been gradually becoming weaker.

Chicago, August 2.—(AP)—The Dempsey-Tunney fight to be held on Chicago's lake front ran into a couple of snags today. However, George F. Getz, millionaire and legal promoter acting for Tex Rickard, was granted a promoter's license by the Illinois state athletic commission to stage the battle.

From Los Angeles came a statement from Dempsey, that he could not be ready to fight until September 26. Getz in his application named September 15 as the date for the fight with September 22nd as the alternative date, and with the prospect that the contest would be decided on the latter date.

Dempsey, from Los Angeles, said he could not be ready to meet Tunney until some day after the twenty-sixth, due to conditions which he could not for see at the time he was in New York to box Jack Sharkey. He said the condition of his wife, Estelle Taylor, made it necessary to hold the match after September 26, but he might have ample time for preparation.

The other disquieting note came from the New York Athletic commission, which said in a regular meeting today. The New York commission hinted it might take some action intended to prevent Rickard from holding the fight in Chicago, in making its announcement that "we have nothing to say now."

Trouble Maker.

The commission's public correspondence tending to show that he believed it held a promise from Rickard to hold the Tunney-Dempsey match in New York, as a result of receiving sanction charge $27,500 for ringside seats at the Dempsey-Sharkey fight.

To add to the complications, Rickard was informed that Soldiers field would not be available after September 25, as leases for other shows in the stadium have been signed.

Rickard said he would fight this afternoon apparently satisfied that Dempsey would agree to the September 22 date. He wired Dempsey that conditions would prevent staging the match later than the 25th.

"Soldiers field is looked after September 25," Rickard said. "It is impossible to postpone the fight until after the twenty-sixth. Dempsey will have to fight on the twenty-second, that's all."

"Even if it should be possible to get the stadium, we could not afford to take chances with weather conditions at that time of year, with a $2,000,000 stake in the fight."

With the date of the bout shifted from Sept. 15th to the 22nd, and likely to stick there, Getz appeared before the state athletic commission to make application to promote the show. Rickard, while remaining the man behind the works, staged discreetly the commission's approval.

The boxing board, after a 45-minute session, voted favorable action.

Dempsey Awaits Rickard Answer.

Los Angeles, August 2.—Jack Dempsey tonight said that, although he still was awaiting Tex Rickard's answer to his request that his match with Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship at Chicago be postponed until September 26, he would bow to the promoter's demands, and if necessary, would fight September 22.

TEX RICKARD ON WAY HOME.

Chicago, August 2.—Tex Rickard is on his way home, now that all arrangements, formal and informal, have been completed to hold the Tunney-Dempsey fight for the world's heavyweight championship in Chicago in September.

Only the exact date of the fight remains in doubt. Originally, it was to have been held at Soldiers' field September 15. But due to Jack Dempsey's insistence upon postponement, due to his wife's illness, it is probable the bout may be held over a week.

Bob Has Chance To Hold Four Big Titles

New York, August 2.—Bobby from abroad his second successive British open golf title, now wants to win the national amateur championship at Minneapolis.

The young Atlanta will go to later this month with that objective in mind.

Winning a championship means more to Bobby Jones now than formerly.

If he can play as well as he did on the fairways of Pine, when he spread-eagled the field and broke a number of records, taking the British open title by a margin of six strokes, Jones should win at Minneapolis.

Bobby bettered par so consistently on the difficult St. Andrews course that no golfer in the world could come within six strokes of him. He has only to put together six or eight consecutive rounds of the same sort to regain the American amateur crown.

If Jones can win at Minneapolis, he has an opportunity to achieve something heretofore believed impossible. He can go ahead next spring and win the British amateur, returning to time to regain the open championship of this country and thus hold all of the same sort of titles in the universe.

Chicago Cubs Increase Lead Over Pirates

National League Leaders Beat Phillies, 6-2—Pittsburgh Loses.

Chicago, August 2.—Chicago's lead increased today as the Pittsburgh Pirates lost to a half by defeating Philadelphia, 6-2, while Boston won from Pittsburgh.

Alex Ferguson blew up in the second inning when the Cubs staged a four-run rally in which Earl Webb cracked out a double driving Adams and English across the pan. Webb also drove in the third run for the Cubs in the sixth. Bush settled down after the third inning, the visitors being able to gather only three more hits. Two fast double plays by the Cubs aided Bush.

SYNOPSIS.
A hand of crooks, stumbling on the fact that Sir Adrian Shale's wife is alive, when supposedly she had died six months before in Italy, arrives at Grantwick, Sir Adrian's home, for the purpose of blackmailing him. Mimi Winchell, one of the crooks, posing as a widow, obtains a letter of introduction to Sir Adrian, who is kind to her and her "daughter" Doris. The girl is beautiful and possesses the only shred of respectability the gang can lay claim to. She is in reality an orphan whom Mimi has kidnapped. One of the crooks, Beauty Bill Gibbons, asks Doris to marry him. She refuses. A few days later Sir Adrian sends Mimi by announcing he would like to marry Doris. She tells him she knows his wife is alive and demands fifty thousand pounds for silence. Sir Adrian does not believe her, but agrees to pay the money. She returns to London immediately, and discovers that Sir Adrian has tricked her. Somewhat disturbed by Mimi's story, Sir Adrian decides to make an investigation. His wife's former maid, Anna Ferguson, failed to come back to England after Lady Shale's death in Italy. In attempting to find her, Sir Adrian calls on her sister, Miss George, a fashionable London dressmaker, who is unable to give him any information. Doris rebels at the life she is forced to lead with Mimi and her husband, Uncle Charles, and takes a job as a nannan at Miss George's. Uncle Charles, ill, sends for Doris, and while she is with him he dies. She is late in returning to Miss George's and is scolded by madam's husband for refusing to tell where she has been. She leaves madam's house and her employer, Mimi, knowing Doris is Miss George's daughter, makes a demand on the dressmaker for five thousand pounds. Sir Adrian calls on Miss George to tell her that he has just learned of her wife's death six months ago, and that his wife had recently died. George consoles Sir Adrian about the blackmailing scheme, and offers to help her. He learns that she knew Doris Winchell in Miss George's daughter, and that she is at present in a London hospital, having been run down by a motor car.

INSTALLMENT XXXIII.

BROKEN BARRIERS.
Adrian's emotions, as he was rushed through busy suburban London that autumn afternoon, were electric. He tried deliberately to bring his sane, judicial, businesslike brain to bear upon them, to analyze them. Why should this affair of Doris Winchell or Doris Ferguson—whatever the girl's name was—have excited him so much?

He recalled the heartless letter he had received, but a few hours since, from his dead wife. The sting of that had already passed. He could think of Beatrice's taunting words without pain now. But thoughts of unattractive George in the grip of a blackmailer, and her frank, human confession of her love for her husband blended with a natural instinctive longing to see her own child whom she had abandoned moved him strongly. And the thought of that child, tossed about as a cork on the stormy sea of fate, brought him real anxiety. She was ill—it might be, dying. Shale winced. What a tragedy for poor George! Ferguson if he should bring her to her child too late. What a greater tragedy that this child actually should have lived, unknown, under her mother's roof. But worst of all, what a bitter, savage jest that Doris should have been used as a tool in a vile plot to blackmail her own mother.

Shale's face was grave as he pondered the complex circumstances. Even now he could not bring himself to believe that Doris, simple, childlike blue eyes served to disguise a subtle, base mind.

Yet there was the Grantwick affair, and her ominous disappearance at the propitious moment, from Dover street. But on the other hand, why was she alone in the hospital; why had the gang not rallied around her. It was incredible that Mimi, knowing the girl to be seriously ill, could have said those things which George had repeated to him. Such a fiendish callousness was almost beyond human comprehension.

That thought came as a relief to Shale's harassed brain. No—and his heart leaped with unexpected joy as he came to this conclusion—no, Doris was not a party to the plot against George. Difficult as the circumstances might be to understand, her sojourn in Dover street could have had nothing to do with Mimi's crooked business.

There came back to him, not for the first time, Doris' impassioned outburst: "I tell you I am trying, trying my hardest to earn my living like any other girl. And you all try to hound me back to the other life."

Yes, thank God, those words were true. Shale told himself, and a queer little smile of content broke the stern lines of his face at the thought. The expression changed to one of wonder, as the feeling, so long kept at bay at the dictates of reason, surged suddenly through his barriers, and Adrian Shale faced the fact squarely that the affection for Doris Winchell, which had begun to grow in his heart at Grantwick, had never been killed. It was stronger than ever now. He loved her, and no damning suspicion could alter that love. Guiltless or innocent, he loved her—the past could make no difference to him. It was the future that mattered, and the future was in his own strong hands.

And then with startling clarity, the realization came to him that at last he was free. Beatrice's death permitted him, an honorable man, to entertain these thoughts.

What was it she had written? "I can only hope that some day you may know the happiness of love such as I have known. Poor Beatrice! Who was he to judge her?"

They were running through the crowded omnibus hidden streets by the Elephant and Castle when Shale turned to the car telephone.

"Faster, please!" he called to a surprised chauffeur used generally to proceed from his employer for hurrying in traffic.

Although it seemed an age to Shale, Aunt Het

Society's Interest Centers In Weddings and Visitors

A quartet of interesting weddings features today's social calendar. Wednesday always taking precedence over other days of the week as the bride's choice. Miss Betty Blount will plight her troth to Edward Young Howard, of Stephens, at high noon, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride-elect's sister, Mrs. Ben E. Walker, on Briar-cliff road.

At 6 o'clock Miss Catherine Abbott will become the bride of Terrell H. Yon at St. Luke's Episcopal church. The Central Presbyterian church will be the scene at 7 o'clock this evening of the wedding of Miss Merle Perkins to Dwight A. H. Crumbecker. Another ceremony of interest will be that uniting Miss Georgia Adele Turner and Garrett Walthall Thornton this evening.

Society relinquishes with keen regret the delightful presence of Major General Malin Craig and Mrs. Craig, who leave Friday for Kansas City, going later to Panama where General Craig will report for duty. Does illness keep you from your work?

A GIRL who earns her living—whether in store, office, factory or home—realizes the necessity of regular attendance at her place of employment. For this reason she works on day after day. When she becomes tired out and run-down, she feels that she must keep at her work without taking time to rest.

Thousands of girls have found that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored them to a normal physical condition, and has made them fit for work. These two women testify to that fact:

HEALTHY AND STRONG

Silverton, Oregon:—"I am writing to tell you how much your medicine has helped me. I was doing canner work, canning, sealing, etc., but had to quit work when sick as I would be so weak I could hardly walk across the room. A friend of mine told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have found relief when sick and it helps me more each time. Every one says I am a healthier and stronger girl. I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to all my friends." Julia Schmidt, 113 Willow St., Silverton, Oregon.

None genuine unless the signature of Lydia E. Pinkham.

LOOK AS YOUNG

Fruitdale, South Dakota:—"I felt badly. It seemed like my back broke all to pieces and I couldn't stoop down to get anything from the floor. Then a friend told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So I did, and it sure has helped me. I can work all day long and I feel so good. I am 35 years old and I look just as young as if I were 20. I am glad to answer letters from any one about this medicine because it has done me good." Mrs. Francis P. Fajardo, Box 31, Fruitdale, South Dakota.

—for a better figure

DID you know you could have a restful, healthful, slenderizing support without a corset? All the benefits of girdle and brassiere without either? A figure that will take years off your age? And not be conscious of the garment that achieves it?

CHARIS is a one-piece, adjustable garment with inside abdominal band that can be raised or lowered as needed, affording support at the very place where the muscles first begin to sag and resting and reducing the abdomen. By an ingenious lacing device you can mold CHARIS to your figure without removing it.

CHARIS costs less than a corset of like quality and is priceless in comfort and body-freedom.

Demonstration cheerfully given in your own home. Write or phone.

Peter S. Twitty, state game and fish commissioner, as principal speaker of the occasion, urged conservation of Georgia's wild life to make the state a sportsman's paradise. The speaker was presented by J. S. Kennedy, in charge of the program.

ROTARY—Reports of delegates to the international Rotary convention at Ostend, Belgium, featured the regular luncheon of the Atlanta Rotary club Tuesday. The speaker was Miss Kathryn Brooks, who accompanied them as far as America and Blakey, where they will stop with friends for a few days.

regular meeting of the Atlanta Lions club Tuesday in the Winecoff hotel. Mr. Shabbe's subject dealt with Persia, its costumes and present difficulties. Special music arrangements were made for the program. President Joseph B. Wolfe returned after a brief illness to preside at the meeting.

CIVITAN—Louis Templeman, popular baritone of the municipal opera cast, accompanied by Charles Berton, musical director, held the center of attraction at the Civitan club's weekly luncheon, Tuesday in the Atlanta Athletic club building. The artists were presented to the club by Charles Howard Candler, head of the Municipal Opera company. The principal speaker was Joel Hunter, who repeated the address, "Selling Civitan to Old Members, New Members and the Public," delivered by him at the recent international convention of Civitans at Nashville. Harry Root, as chairman of the program committee, announced that next Tuesday would be Ladies' day.

LIONS—Y. H. Shabbe, native of Persia, who has made Atlanta his home, was principal speaker at the American Business club Tuesday at the Henry Grady hotel, was a contest among members to identify sketches of themselves, drawn by Grant Allen, staff artist of the Journal. G. M. Phillips won the prize for naming 50 per cent of the portraits correctly. A resolution was introduced at the meeting urging selection of the city's property at Mitchell and Washington streets for the new city hall site. President John H. Woods presided.

EXCHANGE—Members of the Atlanta Exchange club observed Tuesday, known to Exchange clubs throughout the nation as "Sunshine Special," by playing host to 150 orphan children at an all-day outing at Idlewood park. The children were from the Atlanta Child's home, the Home of the Friendless and the Georgia Baptist home.

New York, August 2.—(P)—The cotton market was lower today under the influence of liquidation believed to have been inspired by foreign private cotton estimates. Much of the trading represented a further evening up of commitments in preparation for the approaching government report and the decline was more generally supposed to reflect a readjustment of the technical position than any fresh factor in the market. December closed off at 18.04, making a net decline of 48 points. December closed at 18.08, with the general market closing steady at net declines of 40 to 44 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 5 points to a decline of 2 points, most positions being higher on covering or a little commission house buying encouraged by relatively firm Liverpool cables. This initial demand was supplied by selling which seemed to come partly from spot interests or the south and the market became rather weak and unsteady during the middle of the day. There was another flurry of covering on the official forecast for showings in the southwest, but the weather in the eastern belt was considered somewhat better, and demand was supplied on comparatively moderate bulges. Prices weakened again later reaching the lowest levels of the day in the late hour, with October selling at 17.90 and January at 18.11. Final prices were 4 or 5 points up from the lowest on covering.

Some stop-orders were uncovered when October broke below the 18-cent level early in the afternoon, and after the execution fluctuations were rather nervous and irregular. A private report made the condition 73.5 and the indicated crop 15,045,000 bales, or somewhat above previous private figures. Exports today 10,502 making 18,507 so far this season. Port receipts 10,405. U. S. port stocks 910,655.

N. O. MARKETS CLOSES 42 POINTS DOWN.

New Orleans, August 2.—(P)—Despite rainy weather and bullish cables the cotton market was reactionary almost from the start. Following a steady opening, prices declined until October reached 17.67, 55 points below the opening high. The delivery rallied slightly in the late trading and closed at 17.73, 42 points down. The

NEW JERSEY REORGANIZATION

New York, August 2.—(P)—The New York Times says the Standard Oil company of New Jersey plans to reorganize its extensive world-wide interests and become virtually an operating company, through the creation of separate subsidiaries.

Reorganization of the New Jersey company's interests, involving the first division of its diversified holdings since the historic dissolution in 1911 is being made solely with a view to increasing operating efficiency, free from outside influences, the Times says.

Standard of New Jersey expects to continue its world-wide expansion and plans a better-redefined organization through additional wholly-owned subsidiaries which are said to fit in with its general expansion program.

Each subsidiary will be managed by an executive who will be a member of the board of directors of the parent company, resulting, ultimately, in the complete reclassification of the Standard Oil of New Jersey's interests.

Under the plan separate units of the parent company will control producing, marketing, domestic transportation, and export activities, and how far the company will go eventually, depends upon the success that may attend the preliminary reorganization.

increased buying of high grade investment issues today resulted in several new peak prices in the bond market.

There was a whole new understanding of strength. Continued bank-money rates, the recent decline in bankers' acceptance rates and the reduction last week of the Kansas City

Central Reserve bank's discount rate has revived hope in speculative quarters that downward revisions in other

J. C. BRIDGES' HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

The Georgia Railroad Raid (Part Three) by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

Columbia, S. C., August 2.—(AP)—Arguments for and against Governor Richards' interpretation of the ancient blue Sunday laws, in so far as they apply to the sale of gasoline, will be laid before the state supreme court at a special session called for Wednesday. The applicability of the statutes, some of which date back to 1801, to the playing of golf on Sunday has already been argued before that tribunal but no decision has been handed down as yet.

The gasoline case arose out of a restraining order issued by Circuit Judge William H. Grimball, of the Charleston Oil company, by which state and county officers were forbidden to interfere with the selling of gasoline, which the judge held to be a "necessity" within the meaning of the statute.

GEORGIA FARM BODY HOLDS 81ST MEETING

Home, Ga., August 2.—(AP)—Proposed legislation dealing with agriculture now before the state legislature was outlined today in an address by Commissioner of Agriculture Eugene Talmadge, speaking before the 81st annual meeting of the Georgia Agricultural society, which opened this morning.

Commissioner Talmadge dwelt at length on the proposed fertilizer bill, declaring it would be a "necessity" to the Georgia farmer and encourage him to take a greater interest in the scientific aspect of agriculture.

He called on the confederation also to offer their aid toward the proposal to move the state entomological department "away from the state capital and politics" to carry it down to the experiment station at Griffin.

C. A. Cobb, editor of the Southern Ruralist, told the delegates that the last congress had failed to give any aid to the farmer, according to the national assembly with playing politics. He criticized Georgia congressmen for introducing what he declared was a farm relief bill originating in New Jersey, as a substitute for the McNary-Haugen bill.

CRUDE OIL OUTPUT UP 12,250 BARRELS

New York, August 2.—(AP)—The daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 12,250 barrels for the week ended July 30, totaling 2,588,100 barrels, says the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute.

CENTRAL GEORGIA OLDSMOBILE MEN HOLD CONVENTION

Central Georgia dealers of Oldsmobile, division of General Motors corporation, met Tuesday at the Peachtree street, to discuss improvements in the car for the coming season. The same basic lines that have proven popular have been retained, but with many improvements in body construction and appearance are evident in the improved car. Beautiful new color combinations are now to be had, and a new building program, which includes an additional motor building and warehouses and will cost between three and four million dollars, is now under way. Last year Oldsmobile showed an increase in sales of 55 per cent over the preceding year's sales.

Officials at the meeting declared that optimistic reports on conditions coming from all sections of the country lead Oldsmobile officials to believe that the remaining part of the year will break all previous sales records, and preparations are going on for increased production facilities.

S. C. INMAN, LEADING CITRUS GROWER, DIES

Winterhaven, Fla., August 2.—(AP)—Sidney C. Inman, 75, pioneer resident of Winterhaven and one of the most widely known citrus growers in the state, died at his home here this morning of heart trouble from which he had suffered for the last two years.

Mr. Inman was a brother of the late Dr. W. F. Inman, whose faith in Florida's citrus industry permitted him to carry on his fruit culture in the face of the disastrous freeze of 1904. Funeral services will be held here Thursday afternoon. The body will be sent to Akron, Ohio.

AT DAWN ON APRIL 12, 1862, THE DAY SET FOR ANDREWS' RAID UPON THE GEORGIA STATE RAILWAY, THE DISGUISED FEDERAL GUARDS MET IN THEIR LEADER'S ROOM AT THE MARIETTA HOTEL (MARIETTA, GEORGIA), FOR THEIR FINAL INSTRUCTIONS. OF THE 24 WHO HAD LEFT SHELBYVILLE, FOUR HAD BEEN DISCOVERED AND ARRESTED BY THE CONFEDERATES. TWO OF THESE, TO SAVE THEIR LIVES, JOINED THE SOUTHERN ARMY.
